'Feed the Niggers Hay',
Southern Crowd Yells

By JOHN G. WARNER

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The White Citizens Council held a mass meeting last night in its battle to halt integration of public schools in New Orleans.

The meeting was interrupted repeatedly by shouts of "Kill the niggers," "Feed 'em hay," and "Send 'em back to Africa." One of the evening's attractions was the trooping of seven grade-school children on stage. Three girls and one boy wore exaggerated blackface while two boys and one girl wore no makeup. The children hugged each other and made loud smacking noises, switching partners so that each "Negro" smooched a white. "Is that what you want?" council president Dr. Emmett

Erwin asked, pointing to the children. The hall became a bedlam of boos.

A man wearing a vest made of a Confederate flag waved a sign reading: "Integration means race mongrelization."

Commissionaires patrolled the aisles hawking Confederate flags and rebel army caps. Pamphlets on "God gave the law of segregation—as well as the 10 Commandments—to Moses on Mount Sinai," and "Race mixing a religious fraud" were distributed.

Stand Up and Fight

State superintendent of education Shelby Jackson told the crowd to "stand up and fight... and you will have freedom."

Frank Voelker, chairman of the state sovereignty commission, called for President Eisenhower or President-elect John Kennedy to suspend integration decisions which have resulted in four Negro girls' attendance at two previously white-only public schools here. Voelker told the 2,500 persons at the meeting that

Louisianans "are not called upon to abide by the actions of our legally constituted courts when their actions amount to judicial tyranny."

Louisiana Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr. told the group "I'm not against Negroes. I think they're entitled to some of the same human rights we are."

"Louisiana will go from public to private schools so every child will have a cheque or money to go to the school of his choice," Martin said.

White Students Only

"The white schools will accept white students and the black schools will accept colored," he said.

He called on the Negroes of New Orleans to "come and take those colored children out of these schools just like the whites have done." He said Negroes are treated better in Louisiana than anywhere else. "Isn't it true Mississippi hasn't been integrated yet because they rattled their sword louder than we did?" he asked. Council president Erwin called for members to give the parents of the eight white children who are ignoring the white boycott "the silent treatment."

The legislature yesterday passed new laws to replace the city school board with a state-appointed board, and the state supreme court upheld a law passed earlier this year which had the same purpose.

The earlier law was rendered unenforceable by an injunction requested by the justice department and a similar action was expected this week against yesterday's law.

Last-Ditch Move Integration Stall

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Louisiana's attorney-general, in a sudden state move to unseat the New Orleans school board and end integration, told a federal court yesterday that he is the school board's new lawyer.

The state's last-ditch power play wasn't indicated until Gov. Jimmie Davis walked into the federal courtroom here that he has taken pains to avoid in the past, even when subpoenaed.

He left before the hearing ended, and the three-judge federal court took under advisement the mass of motions and requests before it. A ruling is not expected until next week.

The court, which has thwarted every previous move of the state to stop integration of two elementary schools, met to rule on the constitutionality of a new law to fire the school board. It also heard the school board's request for an order directing four city banks and the city revenue department to give the school board its money.

The law firing the school board was upheld in the state supreme court Thursday, but a temporary restraining order was issued earlier by a federal court barring its enforcement. The legislature has passed an almost identical bill, but Davis has not signed it.

House Divorced From Divorces

OTTAWA (UPI)—The divorces previously granted by House of Commons yesterday, the Senate divorce committee, temporarily gave up its role. It would be in effect until the end of the present session and Newfoundland marriage laws.

Divorce petitions from the provinces now without divorce courts would then be approved by the Upper House. A private member's bill only require investigation and approval by the Upper House. If Morton's bill is approved by the House in near-record time and the Senate would probably be considered one of the duty of studying by the Senate next week.

500 Homes or More Will Each Get $15

Victoria's 500 neediest families this year will receive $15 each from The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund.

Decision was reached yesterday to set the total in the hope that an additional number of families could be helped—above the list of 500 already compiled.

ALL-TIME HIGH

The number of families desperately needing a hand so that some semblance of a happy Christmas can be marked is at an all-time high, and social workers are at wit's end trying to choose 500 neediest families from a total nearer to 1,000.

With four days remaining to give to the fund, it is felt that probably 100 additional families can be helped—with a possibility of still more drawing a helping hand. Total of $7,500 is needed to send $15 to 500 families, and this now is in sight.

ENLARGE FUND

Decision to enlarge the fund this year was taken when Colonist officials and welfare workers faced the fact that welfare rolls in Greater Victoria have jumped by as much as 300 per cent.

The fund must close at 5 p.m. Tuesday so that cheques can be delivered in time for Christmas food and gift shopping.

Each additional family aided also will receive $15.

There is still time to mail or bring a donation to the main office of the Colonist at 2631 Douglas Street or the downtown office at 1215 Broad Street.

Atlas Soars On Target To Eniwetok

Airliners Plunge Into New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Two airliners, one a jet, collided during a snowstorm over New York Friday and plunged into the city. At least 135 persons were killed in the worst disaster in aviation's history.

Of 128 persons aboard the two planes, the sole survivor was one small boy.

Survivor of the holocaust was Stephen Baltz, 11, of Chicago, on his way here to join his mother in a visit to relatives. He fell into a snowbank, badly burned.

CANADIANS DIE

Two Canadians were listed among the passengers and believed dead.

The United Airlines jet, coming from Chicago, plunged

FLAMING PIECES

The other plane, a four-engine Trans World Airlines propeller-driven craft, coming from Ohio, apparently exploded and came down in flaming pieces on Staten Island, across New York harbor.

It landed in an open field, sparing further tragedy. It carried one of the jet's engines with it.

Until Friday, the worst air tragedy in history was the death of 129 soldiers in the June 18, 1953, crash near Tokyo of a U.S. air force transport.

Fire officials said it might be many hours before all the buildings ravaged by the fallen jet could be thoroughly searched.

SCHOOL MISSED

In its death plunge, the big jet narrowly missed St. Augustine's Roman Catholic church. There were 1,700 pupils at classes inside. A priest said:

"It appeared the pilot made a deliberate effort to avoid striking the spire of the church."

DEBRIS TOMB

Ironically, a part of the jet liner came to rest in the wreckage of a funeral parlor, with a score or more passengers entombed in the debris of the parlor.

Would-be rescuers told of seeing passengers' bodies held to their seats by safety belts they had affixed in anticipation of landing. Eury of the disaster made them worthless.

FOR CHRISTMAS

Many of the passengers were coming home for Christmas. They bore gaily wrapped holiday gifts for relatives and friends.

The awesome tragedy, occurring over a metropolitan area, pointed up the growing peril of overcrowded airways above large cities.

ONLY SECOND

It was only the second U.S. in-flight collision between commercial airliners. The last was over the Grand Canyon in 1956 when all 128 persons died in a collision between a Trans World and United airliners.

The crash occurred in skies obscured by falling snow.

LOW CEILING

The two big planes were coming from the west for separate landings at the two New York City airports, LaGuardia and Idlewild, about 10 miles apart on Long Island. Ceiling was about 600 feet.

The planes were supposed to have been at different altitudes.

STEPHEN BALITZ

Hurtling Boy 'Rode' Seat

By HARRY J. STATHOS

NEW YORK (UPI)—"It looked like a picture out of a fairy book. It was a beautiful sight."

Eleven-year-old Stephen Baltz of Wilmette, Ill., remembered looking out the window of the United Airlines DC-8 jet bringing him to New York for a holiday visit with his grandparents and seeing snow covering the city.

Seconds later the huge plane plunged into a row of brown houses in the heart of Brooklyn, killing 83 passengers and crewmen. Only Stephen, aboard the plane by a quirk of fate, survived.

CRUMPLED BODY

Rescuers found the crumpled body of the red-haired boy in the street outside the row of houses.

Critically burned on the hands, arms and chest and with one leg broken, young Baltz fought for his life last night in hospital. Eight doctors worked to save him.

Young Baltz told the doctor of looking out the window and seeing snow drifting down on the city, a sudden explosion and the sickening fall.

STARTED TO FALL

"Then all of a sudden there was an explosion. The plane started to fall and people started to scream," Stephen told a doctor.

Originally, he was to have flown to New York a few days ago to visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Snyder of Yonkers, N.Y. But a throat infection forced him to remain at home last week while his mother and sister, Randee, 9, flew east.

Mrs. Baltz and Randee were waiting for Stephen at the Idlewild international airport. They rushed to his bedside.

DON'T WORRY

Mrs. Baltz could only sob: "Thank God."

"Don't worry about Stevie," Randee told her mother. "He'll be all right."

Once, Stephen roused from the emergency room table to tell doctors his mother was waiting for him at the airport.

He managed to tell the doctors he held onto his seat as the airliner hurtled to the ground.

WOKE UP HERE

"That's all I remember until I woke up here," he said.

Hospital chaplain Donald Stacey said several rescuers found Stephen on the street, his clothing aflame. Jimmy Troiano of Brooklyn, one of the rescuers, said the boy was clutching something in his hand that looked like a small radio. He kept saying, "Mommy, Daddy."

De Gaulle Mulls Move to End War

PARIS (Reuters)—President Charles de Gaulle Friday night was reported considering negotiations with the insurgent National Liberation Front to end the six-year Algerian war.

Official sources in Algiers said the entire meaning of the Jan. 8 referendum on Algeria's future is to be switched to give de Gaulle a mandate to negotiate with the rebels.

Posters and directives drafted to explain the referendum's issues have been scrapped and new ones are being prepared with "peace" as the slogan, the sources said.

The report came as FLN leader Ferhat Abbas ordered his Moslem supporters to stop demonstrations in Algeria but at the same time attacked de Gaulle's referendum.

Russia, Cuba Sign Speedy Trade Pact

HAVANA (UPI)—Premier Fidel Castro's government yesterday signed a new agreement with the Soviet Union aimed at increasing next year's trade between the two nations to $168,000,000.

The surprise signing came only a day after negotiations were opened between Cuban officials and a Soviet trade mission.

The swiftness appeared calculated to impress the Cuban public with the help offered by Moscow at a time when the United States is tightening its economic boycott.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Here comes a small shepherd, tiptoeing into the centre of the room carrying a portable manger full of hay.

He places a Christ Child doll in it, and tiptoes reverently out again. The shepherd is a plump little fellow about two and a half feet tall.

A miniature Mary and Joseph enter, followed by shepherds, Magi and angels with gauze and paper wings, all to the same scale.

Fathers, mothers and grandmothers are seated at the other end of the room. For several weeks past, the children have been singing mysterious fragments of Christmas songs at the breakfast table.

Now it is the day of the concert. The parents watch and listen indulgently, each of them focussing especially on their own shepherd or wise man.

Take It Seriously

"They take it so seriously," whispers a mother. Then she stares forward, as though trying by sheer power of concentration to prevent her little boy from making a false step.

The school concert never goes quite according to plan. A shepherd turns left instead of right. One of the Magi makes a funny face, or a choir singer wanders away from the tune.

At a piano behind a screen is the lady who has worked so hard rehearsing these little people. Sometimes you can hear her starting a song with "One, two . . ." or prompting a faltering singer. Sometimes you see her arm impelling an angel in the right direction.

You might think that the little performers would look comical . . . the Magi and choristers and heralds filling past "Don't hurry, take your time" (the teacher commands) . . . the shepherds watching by a fire made of sticks and red flannel, the demure little Mary bowing to the angel with the paper and gauze wings; all the company of children looking down at the make-believe Christ Child in the manger.

But Nobody Laughs

But nobody laughs. The parents watch in silence, some of them witnessing the first public appearance of their toddlers, others seeing their tall boys and girls act for the last time in a concert at this little school.

The children look solemn in their carefully-made clothes. Something of the light of distant times and places seems to shine about them, as they sing a Christmas song:

"I said the donkey, all shaggy and brown,
"I carried His Mother
up hill and down,

"I carried His Mother to Bethlehem town."

"I," said the donkey, all shaggy and brown. When the last small figure has disappeared behind the partition and the play is over, there is a rustle and creak of chairs as the parents turn around to talk, and pretend to be unconcerned.

But they don't fool each other. Somebody takes a deep breath and somebody else's clenched hand creaks. They had been watching their young intensely.

"Very good," says one father, "but we forgot to applaud."

On the Mark for a Turkey

The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund will receive a portion of the proceeds from the shoot which starts at 10 a.m. both days at the club's Albert Head grounds. — (Colonist photo.)

Bad Time For Teeth

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Dental Association warned Friday that the Christmas season was a dangerous time for teeth. It urged celebrators not to try to remove bottle caps with their teeth, not to chew on the pen while writing greetings cards and not to use their teeth to open presents.

Fear Still High

End Algeria Riots Moslems Urged By Rebel Chiefs

ALGIERS (UPI)—French and Moslem rebel leaders appealed Friday for an end to the Algerian rioting but four Moslems were found in Oran with their throats cut and new fears arose of a Moslem European conflict.

The French army was reported increasingly angry at activities of Moslems who for the first time in the cities have supported the rebels battling in the mountains for the past six years. Informed sources said the army "felt strong action was necessary in the cities."

Deaths of the four Moslems, found tied and gagged, brought the death toll in a week of rioting to at least 129. Police said it was not possible to determine at once whether the new victims were killed in strife among rival Arab factions or by counter-terrorist "commandos" organized among French settlers.

Rebel "premier" Ferhat Abbas appealed from his headquarters in Tunis to Moslems in Algeria to end the rioting. At the same time he denounced President de Gaulle's plan for a referendum on the future of Algeria as a "sinister masquerade."

His broadcast apparently called on the Moslems to boycott the Jan. 8 referendum. In Paris, the French government proclaimed its firm determination to push ahead with the de Gaulle plan for giving semi-independence to Algeria.

Toys Still Wanted For 'Needy' Auction

A steady stream of toys being brought to Maynard's auction rooms on Johnson Street heralds good things for the needy families to be helped by The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund.

Toys will be auctioned off by Arthur Roberts Jr. at a giant auction Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 5 and again from 7.30 p.m. until the supply runs out.

BY CONSIGNMENT: Money from the sale of toys donated goes directly into the 500 Fund. Toys may be sold by consignment as well. In this case 15 per cent of the price brought by the toy goes into the fund as the auctioneer's commission. Balance of the money goes to the owner.

As its contribution to the fund, Maynard's throws open the auction rooms cost-free.

DONATE SERVICES: The auctioneer and the Colonist are asked to help donors donate their services at no cost to the fund.

Mc & Mc, the T. Eaton Co., Hudson's Bay Co. and Woodward's stores each make a major contribution to the sale, giving the large number of new toys left on their shelves Monday.

ASKED TO CALL: Groups wishing to contribute bulk lots of toys over the weekend are asked to call Maynard's manager, Roy Asaworth, at EV 4-1763.

Every toy contributed either as a straight donation or to be sold on consignment will help the needy families of the 500 Fund have a happier Christmas.

Deadline for contributions is noon Tuesday.

VANCOUVER (CP)—An arbitration board, by a two to one majority, Friday rejected the request of 1,081 secondary school teachers in Vancouver for wage increases. The teachers had sought increases totalling 9.45 per cent.

Nail Polish Chemicals Harmful to Some People

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, MD

"Dear Dr. Molner: Why do my finger and thumb nails get so sore? I can barely use my fingers after wearing nail polish (any brand) for several days.—B. L. G."

There are chemicals in nail polish—some that are common to all brands—that might cause sensitivity in some people.

Frankly, I think you are lucky in having been able to recognize what it is that causes your trouble. There are many people who have painfully sensitive fingers (or other allergic reactions) yet are unable to identify just what is causing it. For others the trouble may be something else. There's nothing wrong with nail polish for most people, but for some few, it's bad.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it true that when a woman gives birth to a baby in her later years that the child will be either very bright or very stupid, or have a physical defect of some kind? I have two neighbors who firmly believe this.—Mrs. A. M."

In two letters, no. Or in four sentences, the way you've stated it, the answer is absolutely no. It is true, however, that the number of defective children increases somewhat among older parents. A genius or a very stupid child can be born regardless of the age of the parents. In the vast majority of cases, older mothers have perfectly normal children.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is meat tenderizer harmful? I have been told that it is.—Mrs. L. A. B."

No. In all the things I have seen, read, or heard in authoritative quarters, I have never found any reason to worry about the tenderizers. And frankly, since this column appears in quite a few newspapers, I know from experience that if there's even a question about some answer that I give, I receive a mass of factual data from fellow physicians who read this column. (And I think this is a good time to say, thank you to all the physicians who have helped, criticized, or supported me on one point or another. God bless my friends in the profession of helping to keep people healthy.)

Can't Buy Presidency

Mental Patient Nabbed Planned to Kill Kennedy

PALM BEACH (UPI)—A bushy-browed former mental patient arrested here admitted yesterday he planned to kill President-elect John Kennedy by rigging himself up as a "human bomb" and exploding in Kennedy's presence.

The would-be assassin, who had 10 sticks of dynamite in his possession, said he dogged Kennedy's footsteps from Massachusetts to Florida waiting for the right opportunity.

Alerted by the secret service, a Palm Beach traffic policeman arrested the 73-year-old, one-time postal clerk yesterday only 24 hours before Kennedy was due to return to his winter home here from Washington.

TEACH THE U.S.

"I felt the Kennedy money was how he got the White House," the white-haired man said. "I wanted to teach the United States the presidency is not for sale."

Productivity Council Rides Out House Gale

OTTAWA (CP) — Formation of a 25-member productivity council to tune up Canadian industrial efficiency was approved by the Commons Friday after a sustained opposition-battering.

The bill, fourth piece of a government package introduced as job-making tools, was approved by a vote of 151 to 2 on third reading with only two CCF members dissenting.

"If we cannot have a loaf or even half a loaf we are not going to reject a crumb," declared J. W. Pickersgill (L, Bonaville-Twillington).

But he said the council measure and the three previous bills were "wholly inadequate" to meet a problem in which 429,000 Canadians were jobless at mid-November. Over the long haul, the bill might do good.

The council, drawn from the ranks of industry, labor, business and the public, would cut sluggishness from industry, make the public productivity-conscious and provide a better quality of goods at better prices in a highly-competitive world, retorted Paul Martineau, parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

In other Commons matters Friday there were these developments:

● With well-concealed intent, the government granted speedy acceptance of the private bill by M. Douglas Morton (PC, Toronto-Davenport) that lifted contentious study of divorce bills from the Commons for this session and left sole jurisdiction to the Senate.

● Trade Minister Hees said no Canadian export permits have been—or will be—granted for shipment to Cuba of goods on the list of so-called strategic items.

Debate on the productivity council measure continued until the final vote. CCF MPs Arnold Peters, Timiskaming, and Murdo Martin, Timmins, maintained their decision on an earlier stage of the bill by voting against it. They said it will have little impact on easing unemployment and may in fact throw more men out of jobs.

Tugs Refloat Holed Ferry

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Black Ball ferry Quillayute was refloated by tugs Friday with help from a high tide. She will be towed here for repairs.

The 151-foot vessel was gashed in her starboard bow when she went aground Thursday 60 miles northwest of here.

No one was injured and the 10 passengers were taken off and brought here by bus.

Stomach Stood Metal But Ankles Swelled

CHICAGO (AP) — Surgeons who made a medical checkup on a mental patient because he was suffering from swollen ankles recovered 238 objects from his stomach.

Their report, published Friday in the journal of the American Medical Association, listed these among items recovered:

Twenty-six keys, 39 nail files, three sets of rosary beads, 16 religious medals, one bracelet, one necklace, three metal chains, one beer can opener, one knife blade, four nail clippers, three pairs of tweezers and 88 assorted coins.

An "amorphous mass of eroded metal sludge" weighing more than three pounds also was removed by surgery.

'Adult Thumb-Sucking' Smoking Essay Theme

A comparison of smoking "every time a smoker feels as the 'adult version of thumb-sucking' won first prize of $50 in an essay contest on the dangers of smoking sponsored by the B.C. and Yukon Division of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Winner was Lynn Davy, 17, a Grade 12 student in New Westminster. Nearly 2,000 essays were entered.

She quoted statements from Sigmund Freud comparing the smoking habit with a child's thumb-sucking habit and said:

"Though common sense tells us not to indulge in the smoking habit, social standing seems to demand it." Miss Hitchen wrote.

Columbia River Pact Nears Completion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Canadian and United States delegates reported Friday they had made substantial progress toward drafting a final agreement for the co-operative development of the water resources of the Columbia River system.

The delegates have been holding closed sessions for the last three days.

The chairman of the delegations, E. I. Bennett, U.S. undersecretary of the interior, and Justice Minister Fulton, said the delegations had reviewed drafts of the treaty based on the progress report which both governments accepted for this purpose Oct. 19. The delegates meet again in Ottawa Jan. 5-6.

Comfort for the Enemy

THERE are many people, including firm believers in the worth of the trade union system, who will agree with the B.C. division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association that the benefits of the union dues checkoff section of the B.C. labor code should not be broadened to take in political activities. That would be an unwarranted imposition of extra expense on management.

Employers are bound by law to honor all requests for deduction of union dues and to pay over the proceeds to union treasuries, unless an employee in writing revokes authorization of the checkoff. The act says they must do this, even though all the expense of collection and book-keeping falls on them.

There is a difference, however, between deduction of union dues, which at least have some relationship to working conditions, and deduction of membership dues on behalf of a political party.

No employer should be held under legal obligation to take care of providing a political party with an income, especially if in so doing he is handing over ammunition which may be fired against himself. If with the formation of the New Party (CCF-CLC) the checkoff system were compulsorily extended to collection of the political portion of union dues, employers could be placed in the extraordinary position of acting as financial agents for a potential enemy.

The notion is indefensible and absurd. As well might an employer be requested to act as collector of his workers' dues for sports and social activities. From there it would be but a short step to the ultimate in paternal absurdity with the employer paying for everything—rent, light, food, clothing—and giving his staff whatever pocket money was left.

In principle there would be no difference between enforced deductions for political party dues and for monthly payments on a washing machine or TV—except that the former does violence to the doctrine of political freedom.

Housecleaning Needed

ONE of Canada's outstanding editors, Mr. Grattan O'Leary, now chairman of the royal commission on publications, has been moved to protest the flood of anti-Americanism that has burst from the many briefs submitted him by Canadian magazine publishers.

Those who have followed the commission hearings will be inclined to agree with Mr. O'Leary's view. It has become increasingly evident that Canadian magazines are attempting to blame American publications for their own shortcomings.

One simple fact seems to emerge—Canadian magazines do not appeal enough to Canadian readers with the result that American publications are being purchased to make up for the lack.

It is also worthy of note that Canadian writers have a better chance of getting on the American market than they have of breaking into Canadian periodicals. This point was underlined earlier this week with the blatant admission of a representative of one of Canada's leading journals that it was the policy of his organization never to read unsolicited manuscripts.

Perhaps if these very people who are complaining the most became a little more pro-Canadian and a little less anti-American in their policies, Canada's magazines would do better.

Similar Strategy

IT HAS long been known that Russia put great stock on her submarine force, and the newest edition of "Jane's Fighting Ships"—the authority on naval power—emphasizes the strength of that force. The U.S.S.R. is cited as having more submarines than all the other nations combined.

The intent of such disposition of military might is obvious. Allowing that war might occur without the use of nuclear arms the strategy is similar to that of the Germans in the two world conflicts—to starve Europe into submission. In both these wars it was nip and tuck whether the submarine menace could be contained. It was, but only just. Heroic convoys alone kept the seas open to the flow of goods from this side of the Atlantic.

For all its concern over space and missiles it is evident that Russia pins no little faith on the more conventional type of weapon. She does not put all her eggs in one basket. Such a large submarine force suggests that Russian thinking is not confined to a war which may be over in a matter of hours or days. Submarine warfare is a long-drawn-out affair.

Jane's places the number of Soviet submarines at between 450 and 500, six of them nuclear-powered and six guided missile craft, in being or under construction. As against this America has 173 submarines, 17 nuclear-powered and three able to launch missiles. For some years to come therefore the preponderant undersea strength of the Soviet navy will rest in the conventional submarine.

This latest information about Russian naval power invites attention to the role of the RCN, which is to provide an anti-submarine striking force. This is one realm of armament in which Canada can play a conspicuous part. An anti-submarine navy of worthwhile proportion is within her means, and there is warrant for considerable enlargement of its present strength. So long as Russia keeps a vast submarine force in being so long will there be cause for allied rebuttal by way of anti-submarine measures.

Christmas Tree Piracy

TO those contemplating Christmas tree foraging into the woods this weekend there is a single word of advice—Don't!

In this part of the province there are only two lawful ways of obtaining a Christmas tree: from private land with the permission of the owner, or by buying one in town.

Fun though they used to be, the days of pre-Christmas expeditions in search of the traditional trees are just about over for everybody except the friends of owners of timbered land. Chiefly to blame are the vandals who Christmas after Christmas crashed through the woods, trampling seedlings, hacking and throwing away ten times as many trees as they took, and generally behaving on private property as if they not only owned it but were trying to clear it of vegetation.

It is an offence under the Forest Act to remove trees from crown land anywhere, and those who in recent years have paid heavy fines for doing so have learned that the act means what it says and the RCMP mean that it shall be obeyed.

To remove trees from private land without permission is plain, ordinary theft punishable in the same way as shoplifting or any other form of stealing.

Since all trees in the wooded areas beyond municipal boundaries belong either to the crown or to private owners, a tree on a car top puts the possessor of it under the legal obligation of explaining how he got it. For that reason permission from a private landowner must be in writing. The police will not accept verbal assurance that a tree was obtained lawfully.

Interpreting the News

Change of Command

By ALAN HARVEY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

THREE little words—"Waiting for Kennedy"—are emerging as the conventional preamble to serious political discussions.

After patiently sweating out the six-month American election campaign, Britain and Europe are resigned to a further hiatus pending President-elect Kennedy's assumption of authority next month.

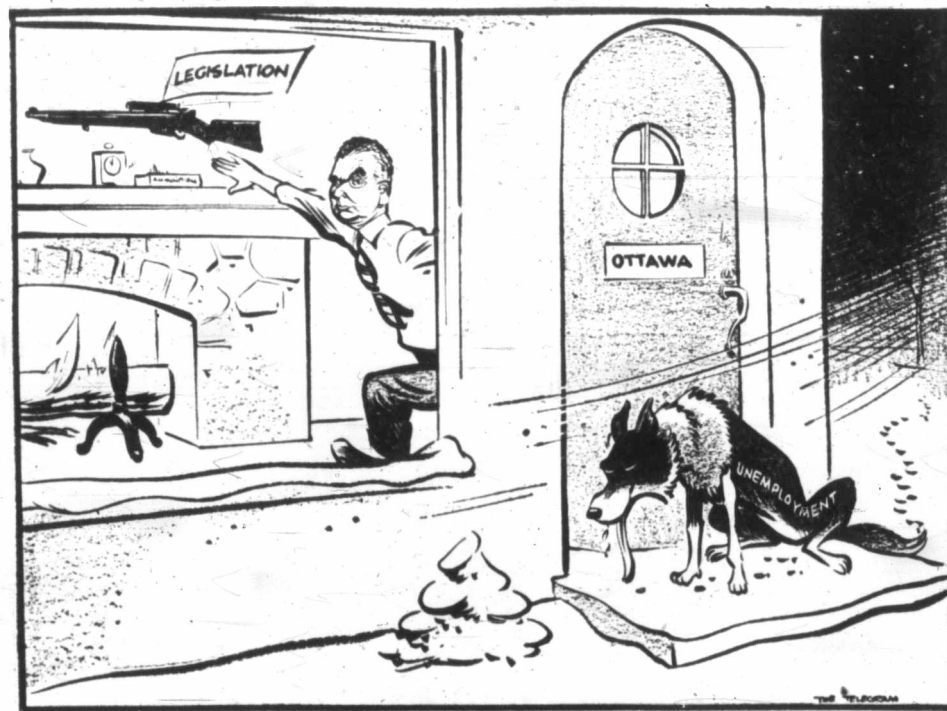

The uncertainty extends to some vital topics. These include Western policy on China, a possible East-West summit meeting and the NATO ministerial talks in Paris.

Prime Minister Macmillan and Russia's Nikita Khrushchev are understood to be eager to resume high-level talks, though doubtless for different reasons. In inviting the Commonwealth prime ministers to London next March, Macmillan appears to have chosen the unusually early date with a possible summer-time summit in mind.

The change of command in Washington will also have influence on the NATO talks in Paris. The two major topics may be a call by West Germany for a new look at cost-sharing within the alliance—a subject to which Canada is understood to attach special importance at this time—and the prospects of equipping NATO with Polaris-firing submarines.

Submarines apart, it is also thought that the U.S. may offer NATO perhaps 100 Polaris missiles for use on land.

UNWELCOME TOURIST

Nativity Obliterated

By CASSANDRA, from London

THE supremely sacred feast of Christmas has now been, judging by the shops in London, reduced to a vast trade fair that far outstrips any of those world contests in commerce that break out in places like Brussels, Chicago and New York.

For six weeks now the town has been transformed into a tinsel and paper circus in which the memory of the Nativity is obliterated by the year's greatest bargain sale.

It is all rather grotesque. A building society by an unhappy juxtaposition which probably has nothing to do with Christmas is showing two paintings in its front windows. One, by Manet, is of a piper—who no doubt is paid to call the tune—and the other is of the Last Supper by Leonardo da Vinci.

Better stick to holly.

Tempting Providence

I MET a man the other day wearing a pleasing but puzzling tie. It was restrained but also provocative. So I gave in quietly and asked him what it was. "The Advanced Motorist's Tie," said he with just the right note of modesty, tinted with reserved pride.

The wearing of this sort of neckwear seems to me to be tempting Providence.

On our roads today even the most advanced motorist can, with all his skill and care extended, find himself wrapped round a tree without being in the slightest way to blame. When preparatory to going to the operating theatre after the accident they undress him and put his advanced motorist's tie on one side, it may well be that Fortune grins and says: "That'll teach him."

There was an Oriental version of the dangerous art of tempting Providence that occurred in our courts the other day. A Chinese witness when asked to take the oath raised the New Testament. He was questioned as to what his religion was and replied: "Any, I don't mind."

Subsequently he agreed to take the oath in the Chinese way by breaking a saucer. One was obtained from the canteen and the clerk said that if he didn't tell the truth, his soul would be cracked like a saucer.

The witness then broke the saucer—and cut his thumb.

Simple Oath

EVERY day hundreds of people in our courts are solemnly sworn in to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, and they call directly upon the Almighty to give His assistance in the matter.

Some would be better advised to call for the aid of Baron Munchausen.

The fact is that the phraseology of the oath has become so hackneyed as to be almost meaningless. Not all oaths are so trite, and I commend the picturesque simplicity of the one they use in the Isle of Man. There, the justices are called upon to administer justice "as indifferently as the herring backbone doth lie in the middle of the fish."

A memorable phrase.

Who Dat

SOON a new edition of that excellent and ponderous tome, "Who's Who," will be lowered with a block and tackle on to my desk. I am looking forward to a companion volume for colored peoples—the proposed title of which is "Who Dat."

It is only fair to say that the current "Who's Who" lists the biggest Who Dat of all times and the best ambassador that the United States has ever had—Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong.

From the Scriptures

He that gathereth in summer is a wise son—but he that sleepeth in harvest causeth shame.—Proverbs, 10:5.

Reports from Ottawa

A COUPLE of years ago "the Vision" was top-drawer stuff in this capital, with all the Conservatives from John Diefenbaker down enthusiastically extolling the government's intentions in the Arctic.

In a sort of go-north-young-man fervor, Tory politicians pictured the land above the provinces as a cornucopia of riches waiting to be opened by the new administration.

You don't hear much of the Vision nowadays. It's no longer top drawer. Just what drawer it's hard to say, but it's clear that the prime minister's pet project has a long way to go before it will win votes again the way it did in 1958.

What happened? Several things. The government found the north is a place where you have to make haste slowly. Roads to Arctic resources sound exciting, challenging—but first you have to find and pinpoint resources worth the cost. It quickly became apparent both that development of the Arctic couldn't be a between-elections quickie, and that the treasury could sink vast treasure in the north without providing many results to which the Conservatives could point with pride. So, with other and more important problems pressing it on all sides, the government quietly slid the Vision into a lower drawer.

Nevertheless, while the Vision hasn't panned out spectacularly, it has given added scope, impetus and urgency to the northern development program.

The government has carried on work it found in progress when it took office, like the creation of the new town of Inuvik on the Mackenzie River delta. Inuvik was planned to replace the old town of Aklavik because of the latter's unsatisfactory site on frozen muskeg. The cost of the modern new town, designed to accommodate 2,500 persons, is now estimated at $34,000,000.

Plans for a new town at Frobisher Bay in the Eastern Arctic, "envisioned" two years ago as an ultra-modern city of 5,000 persons in geodesic, interconnected, atomic-heated apartment blocks, have been downgraded. With the advent of long-range intercontinental jets, Frobisher's air travel boom collapsed almost before it started. Now Frobisher faces a less glamorous future as a northern administration centre of about 2,000.

A third new town is in prospect, at Pine Point on the south shore of Great Slave Lake. Surveys for a railway will begin next summer, with Consolidated Mining & Smelting reported ready to start large-scale mining of the huge zinc-lead deposit there as soon as steel is laid.

Because the glaciers swept our north of its soil, except in the western Arctic, our northern civilization must depend wholly on minerals, oil and gas.

Oil and gas exploration is continuing on the mainland, and the arc hopes that the first well in the Arctic islands will be drilled next summer. A tungsten deposit at Flat Lake, north of British Columbia, and a quartz gold find at Tauranais, 150 miles from Whitehorse, may be in production within two years. Yellowknife's new road to Edmonton was opened this year; now will be extended over the next five years to Tauranais.

Tauranais is a combination of Latin words meaning "bull" and "dog"—a connotation that is perhaps more appropriate for the opening of the Arctic than the Vision.

The Packsack

Protecting Dirt

By GREGORY CLARK

OUR guide on a recent hunting trip in quest of wolf tracks to photograph had very dirty hands. From a beaver trap we encountered on our rounds he removed a beaver, skinned it and briefly scrubbed off his hands with snow. He mauled his dogs, scratched his head, wiped the perspiration off his neck. He lit a lunch fire and got soot off the tea pot he had on his sled. And then he unpacked the lunch and handed around to each of us our share.

One of us was a finicky and outspoken gent.

"Pete," he said, "about the only thing I'd take from those hands of yours would be a hard-boiled egg in its shell.

"Aw," said Pete, licking butter from a squashed sandwich off his fingers, "I heard all about that sort of thing when I was in the army and around London and Paris. You guys are terrible afraid of bugs and germs. I could boil my hands in chlorine of lime, and then take hold of a door knob, and catch the Lord only knows what loathsome disease off that door knob."

He let one of the dogs bite a corner off his sandwich, and then proceeded to bite the next bite himself.

"To be protected," he said, "you got to be dirty."

Working Hours

Canada at the Bottom

(From The Montreal Gazette)

THE International Labor Office recently issued some interesting figures, making a comparison of the number of hours worked during a year in Canada and those worked in five other industrial nations. These are the number of hours worked at regular rates of pay. Overtime and layoffs were not included.

The figures are pertinent. Here are the number of normal working hours in each of these countries:

Switzerland	2,416
West Germany	2,296
Sweden	2,212
United Kingdom	2,192
United States	1,984
Canada	1,928

It is very true that the productivity per worker is more important than the number of hours worked. But most of these nations, such as West Germany, have developed modern machinery and techniques to the highest level.

It may not be wholly irrelevant that the two countries having the most trouble with unemployment at the present time are the United States and Canada—those with the lowest normal working hours. And the United States has the advantage over Canada in technical equipment.

It is also relevant that productivity in Canada generally has been declining. As Premier Frost of Ontario recently pointed out, per capita production in Canada, which increased 14 per cent between 1948 and 1952, has been dropping ever since.

It is possible that Canada, both on the basis of normal hours and on a per capita basis, is not producing enough to reduce its unit costs, and is in consequence handicapped in competition. And failure in competition may explain the greater part of Canada's unemployment.

The answer may lie in the improvement of Canadian productivity through the encouragement, by revised taxation and otherwise, of better Canadian machinery, in order to raise the level of productivity per worker. And another part of the answer may lie in increasing the number of normal hours worked in Canada, at regular rates of pay.

Those who are keeping Canada at the bottom of the list as far as normal working hours are concerned may be keeping Canada at the bottom of the list in other ways.

Turning Point

Economic Aid To Latin America

By MARQUIS CHILDS

HARBOR ISLAND, The Bahamas. —In the troubled Caribbean the Bahamas Islands are a refuge of peace and quiet with the illusion that time has stood still at some secure, comfortable point at least a half-century ago.

Three weeks of this peace and quiet, while the president-elect has been making his cabinet and Premier Khrushchev has been trying to whip the dissenting Communist leaders into line, have produced a curious Rip Van Winkle sensation. On a long stretch of splendid, empty beach by a palm-fringed shore the fragmentary scraps of radio news have seemed irrelevant. On this three-mile-long island Dunmore Town still has an 18th century look and an 18th century tempo even if it is being "discovered" by more and more visitors from the north. Cuba, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, the sources of infection, might, for all the casual visitor knows, be in another ocean thousands of miles away. One perceptible effect of the Castro revolution is that a part of the North American tourist trade that has almost entirely deserted Cuban shores is now coming to the Bahamas in search of a "foreign" and "different" atmosphere.

For one vacationer the quiet of this island has meant a chance to catch up on reading missed during the frantic political months just past. One of the foremost rewards has been "In the Days of McKinley" by Margaret Leech. This is first of all a masterful political biography that puts into warm and human perspective a president who had been consigned to the department of plaster saints and thereby his important contribution to American life conveniently ignored.

But it is also, and this is what gives the book such immediate significance today, a penetrating analysis of the involvement of the United States in the long tragedy of Cuba. It was, as Miss Leech shows, a combination of high idealism on the part of Americans revolted by the tyranny of Spain over Cuba and a yeasty burgeoning nationalism that marked the start of world power that even in the era of McKinley was utterly undreamed of.

Sixty years ago, the author makes clear, McKinley made a right and courageous decision. He was beset on the one hand by the annexationists who wanted to take over the island outright. On the other side were those who decried the new "imperialism" and any intervention whatsoever in the affairs of a foreign country.

The president at that vital turning point in American life was determined that the Cubans should have their independence as soon as the occupying troops could be sure that order was restored and that representative government would have a chance to succeed. In the Philippines, which had also been liberated from Spain and loomed large on the Pacific horizon, as part of "manifest destiny" he faced the same dilemma. Wisely McKinley put an able civil governor, William Howard Taft, in command, anticipating a period of tutelage under the United States before the Filipinos would be ready to govern themselves.

That was at a time when the European powers were on the prowl for colonial possessions. The Germans under Kaiser Wilhelm had an eye on the Philippines. They were all taking big chunks out of China and thereby laying the groundwork for the catastrophe of Red China.

What has become evident in the 60 years since McKinley's wise decision is that political independence is not enough. Cuba tended more and more to become an economic dependency of the great and powerful neighbor on her north. One corrupt and bribeable government followed another, culminating in the Batista dictatorship.

Now at another crucial turning point a new president, who could hardly be more unlike McKinley in background, upbringing and outlook, must take some new and more painful decisions than those of 60 years ago. It has become more and more apparent that the kind of economic aid from Washington which seeks in Latin America and the other underdeveloped areas to impose the North American form of capitalism and free enterprise cannot succeed.

Some new and imaginative form—call it state capitalism, a co-operative endeavor uniting the state with private enterprise, or whatever—will have to be found if political freedom is to survive. American aid must be channelled through these new forms if it is to be of any avail. Otherwise Communism seems certain to be the choice of restless and impatient people.

This is what confronts President-elect Kennedy and the choice he must make is at least as hard as that of his predecessor in what was the beginning of America's great adventure into the world.

For the restless tide of change cannot be stayed.

Selassie Returns

30 Years Ago

Chains, Revolution Selassie's Weapons

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The apparently unsuccessful revolt in Ethiopia against Emperor Haile Selassie recalls his own ascent to power 30 years ago in a palace revolution.

At that time Haile Selassie, then known as Ras (Duke) Tafari, overthrew the Emperor Lij Yasu and kept him in chains until his death in 1935.

Since then, the little bearded monarch has been absolute ruler of a country that looks back on a history of independence of 800 years. The Amharas, the most important race in the remote area which Mussolini subdued in the 30s, trace their association with Christianity to the fourth century A.D.

Already a nation state, land-locked until Eritrea was annexed to it in 1952 and lacking vast resources in natural wealth, Ethiopia was almost untouched by the great historical events of the last few hundred years.

Slavery was abolished only in 1924 and the country's first election was not held until 1957.

In Africa of 1960, Haile Selassie is an anachronism. The continent's new breed of rulers have little time for an old man in a vicerey's cocked hat with an affection for lion cubs, expensive motor cars and grandchildren.

Outside Africa, the Negus Negusti or "King of Kings," as he is also known, is remembered with more affection as the spokesman for a helpless country overrun by Benito Mussolini's black-shirted Fascists.

He appealed unsuccessfully to the dying League of Nations in these words:

"Apart from the Kingdom of the Lord, there is not on earth any nation superior to any other. Are the states going to set up the terrible precedent of bowing to force? It is international morality that is at stake."

The same conviction of international morality led the emperor to furnish troops to the United Nations operations in Korea and the Congo.

But in Africa today, freedom, social and economic equality are of greater concern than international morality.

VIENTIANE (Reuters) — Right-wing rebel leaders Prince Boun Oum and Gen. Phoumi Nosavan entered shattered Vientiane at dusk Friday and announced its "liberation" from leftist troops.

As the pair drove into this Laotian administrative capital, tanks of their pro-U.S. force were clearing the stubborn remnants of paratroop Capt. Kong Le's leftist troops and pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas from their last positions at vital Vientiane airport.

RED ARTILLERY

One report indicated Kong's troops, under attack by Phoumi's men since the battle for Vientiane began Tuesday, were retreating with their Soviet-supplied heavy artillery along a road leading north to the rightist-held royal capital of Luang Prabang.

Boun, premier of the rebel government set up during the apparently-ended four-month struggle for control, was expected to start trying to restore order after the retreat by the leftist forces.

IN CAMBODIA

The latter had tried to hold Vientiane for the neutralist government of Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, now in Cambodia.

Vientiane was badly hit by the bloody battle. Fires burned throughout the city. Thousands were homeless and the number of known casualties—dead and wounded—stood at 320. Hospital officials said they believed there were many more.

Eight Americans said leftist soldiers threatened to kill them but some Laotians talked the soldiers out of it. They were rescued later by British em-

MANILA (UPI) — Philippine army troops were alerted today for possible immediate movement to Laos to help the troops of Brig. Gen. Phoumi Nosavan if the Laos government asks for help from the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Big Advance Came Late At New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A late rally pulled the stock market out of the mire of irregularity Friday and gave it the best advance in more than a month.

Chemicals, followed by steels and high quality stocks in other divisions, paced the final-hour advance.

The market wallowed unevenly, as it has most of this week, until spurts by Du Pont, up 3, and Union Carbide, up 2, seemed to trigger a general rally.

Strong Finish

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market closed strongly after the board after a day of light trading.

Crown Zellerbach was strong among papers.

Bank of Nova Scotia went ahead a point in banks and Steels had an active day, with Page-Hersey leading the field.

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges closed higher.

Canada Iron at 18 1/2, Bank of Nova Scotia at 65 1/2, and Steel Co. of Canada at 66, all gained one point, Imperial Oil at 35 1/2 was up 1/4.

Losses of 1/2 were recorded by B.C. Power at 35 1/2 and Intercontinental Pipe Line at 61 1/2, CPR eased 1/4 at 21 1/2.

Bank of Nova Scotia Ties Cut in Cuba

By HARRY YOUNG Colonist Business Editor

Cuba cut its ties with the last of its foreign-owned banks yesterday when it was announced that the Bank of Nova Scotia had transferred all its Cuban interest to the central bank there.

F. William Nicks, president of the Bank of Nova Scotia, in a statement to The Daily Colonist last night, said that an agreement signed in Havana with the Banco Nacional de Cuba had acquired all assets of the Bank of Nova Scotia and assumed all its liabilities in Cuba.

He added that full repatriation of the Bank of Nova Scotia shareholders' money had been effected, and that the withdrawal would be in an orderly fashion.

He noted, however, that the

Jungle Swallows Plane All 15 Aboard Perish

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—The Brazilian Air Force said Friday none of the 15 persons aboard an airliner survived when it crashed in the Amazon jungle nine days ago.

128 Died in Grand Canyon

Same Two Lines In 1956 Collision

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Friday's plane collision in New York City was the second in the United States involving commercial passenger airliners. Planes of the same two companies were involved.

The first collision occurred over Arizona's Grand Canyon on June 30, 1956, when 128 persons hurtled to their deaths in a violent barrage of wreckage.

It was a Trans World Air Lines Super Constellation carrying 70 persons and a United Air Lines DC-7 with 58 aboard that smashed together over the canyon.

It was a TWA Constellation and a United DC-8—a pure jet airliner—that slammed together Friday in a swirl of fog and snow over America's largest city. The planes carried a total of 127 persons.

The crash also marked the first time in aviation history that a pure jet with passengers aboard crashed in America.

Friday's disaster brought to eight the number of U.S. air collisions since 1949 involving a passenger plane.

Canada's worst took place April 8, 1954, when 37 died in the collision of a Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star and an RCAF Harvard trainer 6,000 feet above Moose Jaw, Sask.

New York Grumbled of Snow

Boy Hung in Tree Like Limp Doll

NEW YORK (AP)—Brooklyn never looked more drab. The tenements, the brown stones, the faded red brick fronts merged in a grey-white blur. It was snowing again and people grumbled about the weather.

Coming so soon after Monday's blizzard, another snow seemed about the worst thing that could happen.

It wasn't. Vincent Ortolano, 30, longshoreman, was having coffee in his kitchen.

"I saw the snow... and then I saw this plane and it was so low I could hit it with a snowball."

"And then the plane was gone from sight and I heard this tremendous explosion."

New MP Reads Elders Unemployment Lesson

OTTAWA (UPI)—The new member of Parliament gave his elders a lecture on unemployment Friday.

Walter Pitman, 31-year-old school teacher elected under the New Party banner in the Peterborough, Ont., by-election in October, criticized Liberal and Conservative members for arguing about who was responsible for unemployment in the 30s and 40s.

"Perhaps it's time we forgot about who did what," he told the Commons during debate on a bill to set up a productivity council.

He even had some harsh words for the CCF, saying Liberals, Conservatives and CCF offered lots of solutions for unemployment during election campaigns but didn't have much to offer in parliament.

He made his remarks after a Liberal and a Tory had argued about unemployment during the terms of office of the two old parties. Pitman said those unemployed wouldn't get much satisfaction this Christmas out of reading a copy of the debate.

"I was washing dishes and I heard a terrific noise like an explosion," said Mrs. Maude Petersen. "I ran out and saw this plane coming down. I thought it would hit my house... but God guided that pilot and he went over, beyond the fence."

Green Bay 10-Point Favorite

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

It is quite possible that he may change his mind should the New York Yankees need him this season but the announcement last week that Gil McDougald had retired to devote more time to his building maintenance firm and his growing (up) family was a nostalgic reminder that the years do slip by. And that we did have at least one bona fide big leaguer here during our stay in the Western International Baseball League.

There was no thought in April of 1949 when he came to Victoria for the first and only time, that Gil McDougald was headed for baseball greatness. And not too many suspected it when he left in September despite a record which showed 188 hits, including the league high of 44 doubles, in 140 games and a .344 batting average.

It has been told here before but the story of how the Yankees found a fine infielder in spite of themselves bears repeating. But for a queer quirk of fate, the Yankees would almost certainly never have won 10 pennants in 12 years and Casey Stengel would never have been able to retire as the storied figure he is.

McDougald was one of more than 100 prospective Yankees at a minor league camp near San Francisco in the spring of 1948. When officials decided it was time to do some thinning, McDougald was on the list of those who were to be told that their presence was no longer desired.

But McDougald, not yet 20, got married that spring and one of the Yankee officials had given him permission to spend the weekend at his San Francisco home and he missed the cutout.

He returned to camp Monday morning and by the time he was noticed, the New York farm club in the class C Pioneer League needed an infielder to start the season. So McDougald was sent to Twin Falls.

That was the only break he was to need, although it wasn't until the 1950 season that the realization dawned that luck had saved a real ballplayer for the Yankees.

McDougald batted .340 for Twin Falls to earn promotion to Victoria in 1949. Even then, it seemed, he was far from having it made. He hit the ball sharply but many felt that his peculiar batting stance would prove a handicap against better pitching and that he lacked assurance and ground-covering ability on defence.

Among those he failed to impress was manager Ted Norbert. "How," he said of the Yankees, "can they expect me to win when they send me players like this."

Norbert was asked to leave in June and the Yankees sent in Earl Bolyard to the Victoria managing. Whether or not Bolyard felt that McDougald had a future isn't known but McDougald came up with a season which demanded advancement and inspired hope.

He did his playing for Beaumont of the Texas League in 1950, and when that season was over, the Yankees knew for certain they had a good one. In a league notorious as a "pitchers' league," McDougald batted .336, led the league in hits with 187 and in putouts and assists for second basemen.

McDougald was an American League rookie along with Mickey Mantle in 1951, starting a 10-year major league career without parallel. The ex-Athletic batted .306 that season, was named as the rookie of the year, and then climaxed a grand freshman season by becoming the sixth player, and first rookie to hit a grand-slam home run in the world series.

In his 10 major league seasons, McDougald played on eight pennant winners and five world series champions. Mantle, Yogi Berra, Joe DiMaggio, Allie Reynolds, Whitey Ford and other greats were his teammates but there were many who argued that McDougald was the most valuable Yankee of them all during his best years.

His value lay in his versatility. He was a dangerous hitter, averaging .277 with good power for his career, but he was even better as an infielder. He was the only player to appear in world series play as a regular second-baseman, third-baseman and shortstop. He was picked as an American League all-star at all three positions and his ability to play all of them with the best enabled Stengel to do the platooning which worked so well for him.

During his career, he tied major league records by driving in six runs in one inning and figuring in five double plays as a shortstop in one game. He led the American League in double plays as a third-baseman in 1952, as a second-baseman in 1955 and a shortstop in 1957.

In the final analysis, his versatility probably cut several seasons from his career. Even for a McDougald, the constant shifting had to mitigate against his play. He wasn't a regular last season but he wasn't by any means finished as a player when he decided to call it quits.

McDougald leaves baseball with a great record but, more than that, he leaves with the genuine respect and liking of everyone in the game. In his 10 big league seasons he was always a big leaguer. My only regret is that I was among those who didn't recognize it when he was here. Even then it must have been there for the noticing.

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: Seattle, Spokane and Calgary in tonight's WHL games and Montreal and Toronto in the NHL. In today's football, the Green Bay Packers over Los Angeles and Alabama and Penn State in college bowl games. Batting average to date: At bat 194; hits 133, percentage .686.

Green Bay Packers rule as 10-point favorites today to beat Los Angeles Rams and go into the National Football League final for the first time since they won the title in 1944.

A crowd of 60,000 and a national television audience (channels 7, 11 and 12 at 1:30 p.m. in Victoria) will watch Packers go against the pesky Rams needing nothing better than a tie to clinch the western division title.

But if they lose, they will wind up tied for the lead with at least one and possibly two teams, forcing a playoff to see who goes against the eastern champions, Philadelphia Eagles.

San Francisco, Detroit and Baltimore are all tied for second place. Should Rams win, the winner of Sunday's Colts-'49ers game would tie Packers, and Detroit could get a share of the tie by beating Chicago Bears.

Packers, who lost 33-31, to Rams in their last meeting, are bursting with health today, but Rams will be without quarterback Frank Ryan and end Del Shofner.

NEALE FRASER, Australian Davis Cup ace, has turned down an offer to turn professional with Jack Kramer with a guarantee of $50,000 for two years, and Italy's star, Nino Pietrangeli, says he will also turn his back on a pro career.

Italy's Davis Cup team arrived in Sydney, Australia yesterday for the challenge round Dec. 26-28. Quarterback Sam Etcheberry yesterday denied a persistent rumor in Montreal that he has signed with New York Giants of the National Football League and will not go to Hamilton Tiger-Cats next season.

Tiger-Cats were sold to a group of Hamilton men for $170,000 yesterday, shortly before city controller-elect Vic Copp obtained a court injunction to hold up the sale for eight days. Club general manager Jake Gaudaur heads the new group.

Big Four teams voted yesterday to stick to a 14-game schedule in 1961 despite the prospect of better crowds under the new interlocking schedule.

FRANK CLAIRE and assistant-coach Bill Smyth have been given a substantial raise and a $1,000 bonus for leading Ottawa Rough Riders to the Grey Cup title. Amount of the raises was not announced.

World junior lightweight champion Flash Elorde outpointed Vicente Rivas of Venezuela in a non-title fight last night in Manila. Nick Morgan, Jr., president of Salt Lake City Bees, and Salt Lake City banker Walter E. Cosgriff have been awarded the Honolulu franchise in the Pacific Coast Baseball League. Morgan is expected to sell his stock in the Bees. Catcher Red Wilson announced his retirement from baseball upon hearing he had been picked in the player draft by Los Angeles Angels, and American League president Joe Cronin is undecided whether or not Angels will be allowed to pick another player from the pool to replace him.

That record should make the Smoke Eaters shudder. They'll meet a hand-picked Russian all-star team in the March 212 tournament at Lausanne and Geneva. The Reds certainly won't be patsies and neither will the Czechs, Swedes and Americans.

The Smoke Eaters "won't stand a chance of winning unless they improve a great deal," was the brusque comment of Dr. C. D. Keeley, business manager of the Maroons who returned home last week. Two days later Ken McMillan, president of the Ontario Hockey Association, said at least two Russian teams were strong enough to win the Allan Cup.

MAROONS BEAT THEM You can see the fix the Smoke Eaters are in. Maroons needed only five games to beat them in the best-of-seven Allan Cup final last spring, added player strength before their overseas tour and still took a good licking.

If the Smoke Eaters lose, you can bet the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will get it in the neck from some quarters although, generally, Canadian fans are becoming a little harder to losses in world competition.

It has been a CAHA rule the back sturdily after an unfortunate first 20 minutes and it took some good goalkeeping by Dennis Riggan to keep them from making it a garrison finish.

Edmonton's big early lead was built up against the run of the play, the Flyers scoring four goals on eight shots in the first period while the Cougars clicked only once in 11.

SHAKY START A combination of bad breaks and a shaky start by goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier proved costly for the Cougars.

Edmonton's second goal, scored by Chuck Holmes, deflected past Pelletier off a teammate's stick and the fourth was a 40-foot effort by Bob Solinger which seemed to fool the veteran Victoria netminder. Then, midway through the second period, Lou Maroon's 51 goal came as the result of another deflection.

The Cougar's settled down for good there, and it looked for a time as if they might come from behind as they did Wednesday night in a 4-2 win over the Flyers.

Gerry Goyer got it to 5-2 in the second period with his 10th goal and after Riggan had balked them several times in the third period, rookie Bert Fizzell brought the score to 5-3. Less than two minutes later, the attempted rally was cut short when Ray Brunel cashed in a passout for a three-goal margin.

Fizzell's goal was his 10th.

First Period Disastrous As Cougars Beaten, 6-3

EDMONTON — Edmonton Flyers snapped a losing streak at four games and took fourth place in the Western Hockey League all to themselves on Friday night by outscoring Victoria's hard-trying Cougars, 6-3, in a free-wheeling game.

Victory came harder than the score would indicate although the Flyers got off to a big start by scoring the first four goals. The Cougars came

For at Least Month

Eddie Not Ready

VANCOUVER (CP)—Eddie Dorohoy will not be able to play hockey for at least a month.

The star Western Hockey League centre sold to Winnipeg Warriors by Vancouver Canucks visited a doctor Friday with his new owner Jack Perrin.

The doctor reported that the 22-year-old Dorohoy broke his left knee last season and broke again between seasons.

will not be properly healed for another month.

"We knew Dorohoy would not be in shape to play right away when we bought him," Perrin said later. "We're willing to wait."

And Dorohoy, who said Thursday night he would not report to Winnipeg under his present contract, said:

"At least, that's settled. Now Mr. Perrin, whom I expect to talk with imminently, and I can proceed on a proper footing."

Coley Hall, manager of the Canucks, said he was not dismayed by the fact that Dorohoy may refuse to report to Winnipeg.

"He is Winnipeg property. The deal has been made and it's final."

Winnipeg, which got Dorohoy in a straight cash transaction, feels he will be a valuable addition to the last-place Warriors.

Canucks Shut Out Warriors Tie for First Place Again

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Canucks gained a share of the Western Hockey League lead for the second time in the past week when their unimpeachable defence proved too much for Winnipeg's hapless Warriors.

Goalkeeper Claude Evans practically loafed through the 60 minutes in gaining his second shutout in the eight games he has played for Canucks.

The Canucks got a goal a period for their 3-0 decision.

Defeat was the sixth in six games of their Western trip for the Warriors, who now have a winless streak of nine games which includes only one tie. Since Nov. 28, when they defeated Spokane Comets 7-3 for their last victory, Warriors have scored only 14 goals.

Canucks share the lead with Calgary, but Stampeders have played three more games.

Warriors have played four more than Vancouver and one more than Calgary and are 15 points out of the lead.

Improved Bowler Favors Tournery Handicap System

By JIM TAYLOR

Figures from last year's event seem to back up the contention here that it is a mistake to base this season's handicaps on last season's averages in the city handicap tenpin tournament.

System will be used for the men's tournament Feb. 5th and 12th and the women's on Feb. 19th and 26th.

Men's tournament officials feel it is the fairest way, although it does give an advantage to the fast-improving bowler. Since the good bowlers, as a general rule, don't hit their peak until late season, they say it provides a truer picture to take averages over a whole season rather than just on games up to Jan. 15 of the current year.

The ladies have a different reason. They bowled last season at Gibson's, and the tournament this year is at Gibson's.

Season of bowling has been much lower last year, they're taking last year's averages to get bigger handicaps.

The system would probably work out beautifully for both men and women if there was some limit on the size of handicaps. But some bowlers are going to have handicaps comparable to a 50-yard start in a 100-yard dash.

In my own league (Colonie Nite-Side, eight teams, 32 bowlers) there are several good examples. My own average has gone up 18 pins. But the man who best points out the flaw in the plan is Terry Neuenfeldt, who in his second season of bowling has his average up to 162. Last year he averaged just 126.

Handicap is based on 185 scratch, meaning four-fifths of the difference between 185 and your own average. This gives Terry a fat 47 pins per game instead of the 18 he would get using this year's averages.

If Terry bowls only his average, without one hot game, he will have a nine-game total of 1,881. Last year that would have won the all-events total by 38 pins. An average day in singles would give him 627, just 29 pins short of Bill Walker's winning 656 last year.

Two Strikes Before Tournament Begins

This isn't to say Terry is going to win an event. But there are a lot of bowlers in Terry's position and one or more of them will be up close. All the new system is doing is to make it tougher than ever for the good bowlers, whose averages are consistent.

Bowlers love strikes, but the good ones have two against them before this tournament even starts.

Reg Waggoner's 862 (333) series at Capital City was the high fivepin total for the week. Others on those lists were Jack Goldie, 839; Gord Pellow, 749 (373); Sam Smith, 744; Eric Marshall, 729, and Bud Foster, 703. At Strathcona, V. Flint had 812 (329), followed by S. Hall, 789 (307); Ken McKay, 742 (326); Russ McKinnan, 740 (323) and Molly Wright, 730. Harry Booth, 843 (321, 310);

Jack Frampton, 790 (320); Al Majorki, 763 (303); Emile Liska, 789; Barb Gardner, 751, and 13-year-old Bob Reid, 730, were top bowlers at Esquimalt.

At Gibson's, the high scorers were Chuck Callow, 843 (314); Jim Pyl, 814 (328); Doug Lowe, 806; Stan Gallop, 788; Emile Liska, 779; Norm Wylie, 757 (318); Olive Carson, 753 (301) and Daryl Jenkins, 752.

Best bowlers at Aurora last week were Larry Lomax, 611 (215, 204); Jim Mills, 610 (223, 201), 560 (203); Roy Begg, 606 (214, 202); Bill Coates, 605 (209, 205); Rich Lou, 600, 524 (208) and 598 (209, 219). Among the ladies, Marg Cooper was tops at 582 (233), followed by Elsie Hill, 558; Aileen Mierzutak, 544 (200) and Leona Williams, 539 (203). At Gibson's, top tenpinners included Wally Noonan, 599; Nita Moody, 574 (228) and 535 (216); Leslie Szabo, 573 (215, 207); Sheldon Nipp, 561; Mary Conlan, 561 (225); Anne Goodman, 547, and Peggy Trickett, 514.

Tomatoes Like Trees

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I have been no end pleased this fall by letters coming in from readers reporting outstanding success in growing tomatoes by a method which, for want of a better word, I must call the Soused Colonist technique.

If you remember, I described this method last spring. In brief, it consists in tearing up a big pile of old newspapers, soaking them in water overnight and burying a big wad of soggy wet newspaper about a foot under the roots of each tomato plant as it is set out in the open. The general idea is to provide a reserve of moisture for the roots to draw upon during dry weather. Somehow, this trickle of moisture drawn up to the roots by the wick-like action of the soil seems to do far more good than any amount of overhead watering, and quite a few readers told me their tomato plants grew like young trees, producing huge quantities of ripe tomatoes, while neighbors' plants grown in the conventional way simply stood still and did nothing through last summer's heat wave.

Naturally, for superior results, it is necessary to use only the very best newspaper. This is why The Daily Colonist imparts such a rich and superb flavor to the fruit, due, no doubt, to the stimulating effect of Mr. Mortmore's "All Aboard" column and the balanced diet on the editorial page.

Today I want to talk about another technique, one designed to produce blossoms and fruit very much earlier in the season, and thereby to extend the season for the harvesting of ripe tomatoes. I mentioned this stunt last spring in an offhand kind of way and I am thinking now I should have stressed it more, for I don't think many readers realized its importance, and few of them had nerve enough to try this rather revolutionary method.

It consists simply of sowing your tomato seeds late and setting out the young plants early.

In the past, it has been the custom to sow seeds indoors or under glass as early as February and to delay planting out until really warm weather arrives, usually in late May. The plants are pretty big when set out, but blossoms are late in forming and there is a tendency for the first-formed truss or cluster of blossoms to abort, producing no fruit. With late blossoms, you get late fruit and too much of the crop must be picked green as the weather turns cool in the fall.

The modern treatment, which originated in a Swedish research establishment, calls for late sowing of seeds. In our climate, I think the end of March is early enough. The seeds are sown fairly thickly about an inch apart in pots or boxes, and the seedlings are grown on, in this crowded condition, until they are a month old and are planted out in early May under the protection of Hotkaps or glass cloches.

When set out in the open garden, these month-old plants are tiny — much smaller than purchased greenhouse-raised plants — but they have all the vitality of youth and it isn't long before they have overtaken and passed the growth of larger plants. Moreover, the chilling they receive through being planted out so early will initiate early blossoming and the plants start making fruit almost before they are out of their diapers.

For the home gardener without a heated greenhouse or frame, one advantage in this method is the great saving in windowsill space. A dozen plants or more can be raised in an ordinary flower pot, and you don't have to "prick them off" or transplant them with wider spacing into seed flats, yet they will start producing as early or earlier than plants coddled in heat.

This Swedish technique, combined with the Soused Colonist stunt, makes it an easy matter to raise a luscious crop of vine-ripened tomatoes.

Sir Alec Out, Harvey In

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Rosalind Russell is losing Sir Alec Guinness from her "Five Finger Exercise" film. Sir Alec is out and Laurence Harvey is in—but not for the same role. Larry plays the tutor. Alec was to have been the husband.

But it's still firm for Roz to get Alec in the movie version of "Majority of One," and while the lady—by riding the Bronx subway—prepared herself for the role of the middle-aged Jewess who finds love with a Japanese, Sir Alec is going to Japan for three weeks to see how the Japanese live.

Frank Sinatra and British actress Mara Lane have been choosing the quieter spots in Palm Springs. I understand Frankie has been a bit difficult on the set of "Devil at Four o'Clock" at Columbia. One scene called for the inside of an airplane and, to save constructing one, Stanley Kramer planned to move the company to another studio which had a plane whose interior could be used. Sinatra wouldn't go; said his contract called for him to work at Columbia. And that was that!

Mrs. Jerry Lewis will be a vision in orchid on Christmas. I saw Jerry buying nighties, negligees and whatnots.

Spyros Skouras was offered $1,300,000 by the insurance company to settle the "Cleopatra" matter, but refused. He believes he should get more. No matter what, I'm told the movie will be made—and with Elizabeth Taylor.

An excellent British picture, "The Angry Silence," was not a hit when it was released in England about a year ago. Like Sir Laurence Olivier's movie, "The Entertainer," which flopped in Britain, I believe this other film will be a success over here.

Joan Collins is hoping she will marry Warren Beatty in London, where he has gone to make a movie and she has gone to be near him. But their friends are beginning to wonder.

Robert Wagner says that, after "Solo," his final picture at 20th, "Natalie (Wood) and I will go into production for ourselves, but not necessarily to work together." I understand the reason Dick Powell bowed out of producing "Solo" was dissatisfaction over the budget.

There are always several directors and producers lunching in the 20th-Fox Cafe de Paris. Not to overlook others—like Colonel Parker (Presley's manager) who, on the day of my visit, was wearing a very loud pink blouse-jacket, with three lines emblazoned on the back: "Elvis Presley; Wild in the Country; a Jerry Wald production."

Producer-director Leo McCarey says of his "Marco Polo" plans: "On my desk I have three letters—OPM (other people's money). But with 'Marco Polo,' I got greedy. I put in $100,000 of my own money. Mario Lanza was going to star. He had just made a smash hit in 'The Great Caruso.' How could I lose, I thought. Well, Mario went to Italy and died. And I lost my $100,000."

Director Mark Robson is preparing two movies, "The Inspector," from the Jan Hartog book, and "The Greatest Raid of All," from the book by C. E. Lucas Phillips.

Anne Baxter and her Australian rancher husband stayed a few days at the King ranch in Texas to catch up with the latest wrinkles in ranching. They certainly went to the right place. Anne will be back next year for another movie. I was sorry her role in "Cimarron" was so small—but what she did was very good. And that's what counts.

Names in the News

Oops! Wrong Kennedy

LONDON—Mrs. Eileen Kennedy of Storrs, Conn., wife of a U.S. government physicist, was amazed by the red-carpet welcome she and her four children got here yesterday.

Gold-brained officials whisked the Kennedys through customs and immigration and settled them in a "VIP" lounge to wait for their flight to Italy.

The name Kennedy explained it. Officials had a radio message warning them to expect President-elect John Kennedy's sister-in-law. "What, me?" Mrs. Kennedy laughed. "Certainly not. I didn't even vote for him."

HOLLYWOOD — Lady May Lawford, 72, mother of actor Peter Lawford and opponent of the political views of Lawford kin President-elect John Kennedy, quit her jewelry store job charging the manager with political intrigue.

NEW YORK — Former British prime minister Sir Anthony Eden said NATO should be given an independent nuclear arm because "NATO needs body and would have it if it could become a nuclear power."

NEW YORK — A group of prominent Americans, including Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, entertainer Steve Allen and psychologist Eric Fromm, has protested any move to give NATO forces an independent pool of nuclear weapons. Protest went in letters to President Eisenhower and President-elect John Kennedy.

STOCKHOLM — Student Prince Johann George Hohenzollern and Swedish Princess Birgitta announced they would be wed next summer. They said they had been brought together by a common interest in art, sports and interior decorating — "and especially love."

VANCOUVER — B.C. Supreme Court discussed an action against North Vancouver Liberal MLA Gordon Gib-

LOS ANGELES — A jury acquitted businessman Richard Loomis, 45, of murder in an airplane crash death but convicted him of destroying insured property, conspiracy and making a false report in connection with the crash.

SEATTLE — Raoul Guy Rockwell, 37, former antique dealer, pleaded innocent to grand larceny. Preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 6.

COLUMBUS, Ga. — Police who stopped an army sergeant for running through a stop sign didn't have the heart to press charges against him. Sgt. Merry Christmas was hurrying home to Lagrange, Ga., to be married.

GOLDEN, Colo. — Attorneys for Joseph Corbett Jr., accused kidnap-killer of wealthy brewer Adolph Coors, asked for a change of venue and a court order to protect Corbett from "further interrogation and abuse." He is being questioned daily.

OTTAWA — Lt. Col. G. A. F. Townsend of Victoria will retire from the regular army in January after 30 years service. He has been technical staff officer at the army development establishment here since 1954.

Cabinet Almost Filled

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect John Kennedy Friday named his brother, Robert Kennedy, attorney-general in his new United States administration, and chose Douglas Dillon to be secretary of the treasury.

A few minutes later he named Byron Whizzer White, a Denver lawyer, to be deputy attorney-general under his brother. White is a former all-American football player.

RACKET PROBE

Robert Kennedy, 35, was the president-elect's campaign manager and has had government experience as counsel of the Senate rackets investigating committee.

This is the first time in U.S. history that a president, or president-elect, has chosen a brother to be in his cabinet.

NOTHING RADICAL

His appointment is one the financial community will likely view as assurance there will be no radical fiscal experiments in the Kennedy administration.

With these appointments, Kennedy completed the selection of his cabinet except for postmaster-general. There were reports this job would go to J. Edward Day, a Los Angeles insurance executive.

Came In as Friend Went Out as Thief

A man who took more than the drink he was offered was fined $25 in Colwood police court yesterday on a charge of theft under $50.

Lauchie Hampton Smith, Work Point, pleaded guilty to taking a 12-ounce bottle of whisky and an electric razor from the motel room of a casual acquaintance who had invited him in for a drink.

David D. G. Morton, 19, 4829 Cordova Bay Road; David Michael White, 19, 4135 Morris, and James Randolph King, Sooke, were fined $50 each for being minors in possession of liquor.

In Oak Bay court Leslie J. Coulter, 321 Paradise, was fined $50 on each of two charges: giving false information to police and consuming liquor in a public place.

A 22 six-shot revolver was identified in city court as having been used by Daryl Odland, 21, of 914 Carlton Crescent, in the attempted robbery Wednesday of Palm Grocery at Bay and Blanshard—a charge to which he pleaded guilty Thursday.

Det. Dean Blackstock produced the weapon in view of the fact Odland had said he'd used a cap gun. The unloaded weapon was found in bushes near the Empress Hotel.

Three men were fined for failing to file income tax returns on demand. Sardara Singh Bains, 4012 Valleyview Road, was fined $50 on two counts; John Blair, 5067 Cordova Bay, and Robert Lindsay, 1225 Haultain, $25 on one count each.

PARIS (Reuters)—The United States Friday tentatively offered to commit five Polaris-armed submarines to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization before the end of 1963.

The five-sub force would carry a total of 80 missiles, a NATO spokesman said.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian Herter also put forward an American offer under which NATO would get about 100 land-based Polaris nuclear missiles as well, conference sources said.

PLAN WELCOMED

A NATO spokesman said the proposal was welcomed unanimously by the ministers.

However, conference sources reported a lack of enthusiasm in the British and French delegations. It was understood Britain and France believe the role of the new nuclear weapons should be worked out first before it is decided how many and what type are needed.

The Canadian delegation reserved decision on the plan. External Affairs Minister Green told a press conference the proposal would have political and economic consequences that would require special study.

DEPLOYED AT SEA

Herter said the U.S. would expect other NATO governments to be ready to contribute to furnishing the 100-odd land-based missiles. The Polaris submarine force would be deployed at sea and the U.S. would maintain control of the warheads.

The three-day NATO conference opened with a warning from Herter that there has been a "marked increase" in the militancy of Soviet policy during recent months.

Gifts, $106 for City Needy Present of Glenlyon Boys

More than 100 Christmas gift parcels and $106 in cash were given to the Christmas Bureau yesterday by Glenlyon Preparatory School.

The gifts and money were collected at the annual Christmas party and entertainment show of the school in St. Mary's Hall Thursday.

Each student donated a gift suitable for a boy his own age.

Labor Hails Industry Idea

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. labor would welcome legislation compelling all organizations to disclose their contributions to political parties, Pat O'Neill, B.C. Federation of Labor secretary, said yesterday. The federation already does this.

Commenting on the request to the cabinet of B.C. manufacturers that union dues checkoffs be suspended where political contributions are included, he said: "It's no secret employers in this province have spent millions on political action. The last provincial election was a classic example."

Flying Fish Flies Low

Hydrofoil

'Fish' Falters Again

The hydrofoil vessel Flying Fish made its second visit to Victoria yesterday and for the second time left its operators a little red-faced.

It developed engine trouble, and when it left for Bellingham officials thought it would have to ride the water conventionally, at reduced speed, instead of skimming along on its hydrofoils.

FLEW ALL RIGHT

An official told The Colonist from Bellingham last night, however, that after leaving the Victoria waterfront around 1.30 p.m., it "flew" all right, and he was back in his office before 4.

On its previous trip it took 4½ hours to get back to Bellingham because, officials said, it was caught by darkness off Anacortes.

NO DOUBT

Yesterday's trouble appeared to cause the operators no doubt about starting a trial service between Bellingham and Victoria early in January.

They issued a schedule for trial service from Jan. 4, continuing through the month, five days a week.

TWO-HOUR TRIPS

Schedule for the 60-passenger craft calls for two-hour trips between Bellingham and Victoria.

Fridays, according to the schedule, Flying Fish will leave Bellingham at 9 a.m.,

arriving at Harbor Marine at 11 a.m.; leave Victoria at 11.30 a.m. and arrive at Bellingham 1.30 p.m.; leave Bellingham 2.30 p.m. and arrive at Victoria at 4.30 p.m., spending the night in Victoria.

Saturdays the times will be the same, but the destinations the other way around, since the first "flight" will be from Victoria. Sundays the schedule will be the same as on Fridays.

Second Trip

Victim and Driver Both Blamed For Traffic Death

Blame for a Sooke traffic death was divided between the victim and the car driver by a coroner's jury yesterday.

David Corrie, 56, of Maple Avenue in Sooke, died at 10.15 p.m. Tuesday, four hours after being struck by a car driven by Haughton Potter Gibson, 83, opposite the latter's home in Sooke village.

JURY'S VERDICT

The jury's verdict said "Mr. Gibson was not entirely without blame," after reporting that Mr. Corrie died "due to his refusal of proper medical treatment, in that he refused to accept a blood transfusion."

Dr. Jeffrey W. Bishop said Corrie, a Jehovah's Witness, twice refused to accept a blood transfusion, although he was in a state of shock and bleeding profusely from a severe scalp cut.

"If the patient had received a transfusion," asked a juror, "what would you say of his chance of survival?"

"Very good," the doctor replied. "In fact, I'd go further. If he'd had a transfusion, in my opinion he'd be alive today."

Injuries, said pathologist Dr. Garth L. Walter, who performed an autopsy, included fractures of seven ribs on one side and 11 on the other, a cut liver, other cuts and abrasions and internal injuries.

Dr. Malcolm I. MacKay, who attended the victim at the hospital, agreed that if he had received a transfusion "he would have had an excellent chance of survival."

DRIVE AHEAD

Mr. Gibson said it was his practice, because of curves in the highway, to drive across the road when making a right turn, then back onto the travelled portion.

He had crossed when he heard "a bang." He stopped almost at once ("within a few feet"), opened the door, and saw a man's head right under the car.

He went to a nearby store to ask that help be summoned, then waited for the ambulance and police.

OUT OF SERVICE

Mondays, Flying Fish will leave Victoria at 9 a.m. and will be pulled out of service until Wednesday mornings for maintenance and repairs. Wednesdays and Thursdays there will be a single round trip each day, leaving Bellingham at 9 a.m. and Victoria at 2.30 p.m.

Fare has been set at $5 one way, $8 return.

Disposal Of Ashes Allowed

Cemetery operators may now dispose of ashes of persons cremated if they have received no instructions from relatives within one year, according to a Public Utilities Commission order approved by provincial cabinet yesterday.

They may also charge a storage fee of $3 for urns.

At a public hearing some time ago operators complained that their storage space was taken up with unclaimed urns of ashes.

Sudbury At Sea Christmas

Crewmen of the Victoria deepsea tug Sudbury II won't make it home for Christmas this year, but with luck and good weather they'll be here before New Year.

Capt. Harley Blagborne, 3148 Westowne, reported his latest position midway between Hawaii and California, bound for San Francisco with a pair of tanker midsections in tow.

Sudbury II left Victoria last May to start a record-breaking series of trans-Pacific tows. A spokesman for Island Tug and Barge said yesterday it was hoped she would reach home port "sometime between Christmas and New Year."

Early in January, with a new master and crew, Sudbury II will begin another series of deepsea towing jobs, picking up two former Liberty ships here bound for a Japanese scrapyard.

One of the obsolete ships is now being loaded for the long voyage at Yarrow's Ltd. shipyards and the second is due to arrive here this weekend.

Meanwhile, Cambrian Salvor, sister ship of Sudbury II, left Kobe, Japan, two days ago for San Francisco where she is scheduled to pick up another double-tow.

Sudbury II towed two ships to Japan for scrapping, and now on the return voyage, is bringing tanker mid-sections back across the Pacific.

Capt. Discovery Debuts at Party

Official "debut" of controversial Capt. Discovery highlighted the annual Christmas party of Victoria Chamber of Commerce in the Empress Hotel ballroom yesterday.

Capt. Discovery seemed to many to resemble publicity director William Hawkins.

Oak Bay Bylaw Repeal Asked

Referendum Requested

Coun. John Watts said yesterday Oak Bay ratepayers who voted down a referendum on pay for reeve and councillors Dec. 8 made an "incorrect decision." He was supported by two other councillors.

Coun. Watts also said council itself "must bear some responsibility" in the failure of the referendum because it failed to state the issues more clearly.

OPEN LETTER

Outlining his future actions in a signed open letter to residents of Oak Bay, Coun. Watts said he would:

● Seek immediately repeal of a bylaw passed by council last year allowing the reeve $720 a year and each councillor $240 to cover out-of-pocket expenses.

● Press for holding of another vote "as soon as possible" on the pay referendum.

HEARTILY ENDORSED

Both Coun. Fred Robinson and Coun. Gordon Elworthy, who also signed the letter, said they "heartily endorsed" its contents.

Coun. Watts said the present amounts paid to council members are "trivial" and cannot be considered as covering loss of income while carrying out council business.

He said if future councillors refuse to absorb this and other costs caused by attendance to council business during normal working hours, "we shall have to resort to using appointed officials to represent us."

LIFT LOAD

To take the added load off senior municipal officials, who are already fully occupied, Coun. Watts said, eventually Oak Bay would be forced into hiring a municipal manager at a cost that will likely run to some $16,000 a year.

While the present reeve, George Murdoch, was both willing and able to make the financial sacrifice necessary to fill the office, inevitably a successor must be found when he wishes to retire.

BEING FAIR

Job of reeve in Oak Bay "is fast becoming one requiring about half of a capable man's total effort," said Coun. Watts. "Are we being fair in saying to any man that he must sacrifice a large part of his earnings in order to serve us as reeve?"

Coun. Watts who campaigned for payment for reeve and councillors in last week's election was re-elected for a two-year term, along with Coun. Robinson and Coun. Fred Hawes. The reeve strongly opposed the referendum, which was designed to obtain a guide for further council action on the pay issue.

Far Too Close for Comfort

Looking out window after small car landed in auto court lawn last night is Mrs. W. Merriss, who was watching plane crash news on television and feared something similar had

Small Car Drops 10 Feet Comes to Rest at Cabin

Crash of a small car into the lawn of a Gorge Road auto court was the most spectacular of a series of accidents last night in the Greater Victoria area.

AB Allen Ray Mikitka, 755 Lamson, driver who was thrown from the car and knocked unconscious, was taken to HMCS Naden Hospital for a checkup.

While passing a car driven by William F. Parker, 3344 Happy Valley, his small car grazed the side of the Parker car, careened against a 16-inch diameter power pole, flipped through the air and dropped about 10 feet to a lawn below street level.

The vehicle came to rest against the side of cabin No. 2, Victoria Auto Court, 99 Gorge West.

Occupant, Mrs. W. Merriss, said, "I was watching the Brooklyn plane crash on television when I heard a series of crashes.

"I thought, 'Oh no, not here!' I ran to see if my children (ages 8, 4 and 2) were all right. They were still asleep."

Four persons were taken to hospital from a two-car crash at Douglas and Frances at 6.15 p.m.

In satisfactory condition, with back injuries, in Naden Hospital is AB Gerald Roy, 25, 127 Bushby, driver. Treated for shock and bruises at St. Joseph's Hospital was a passenger, Camille Cyr, 29, 2836 Heath. ## Unanimous Award

Best Qualified Teachers Win Increases in Saanich

An arbitration board yesterday boosted salaries of the two best qualified groups of Saanich secondary teachers to a more competitive level with their counterparts in Greater Victoria.

The unanimous award will cost ratepayers in School District 63, covering the Saanich Peninsula, an additional $7,600 for teacher salaries in 1961. The increase amounted to 1.2 per cent of the present payroll.

Teachers had asked for increases averaging 8 per cent, which would have cost the taxpayers an additional $49,000 next year.

NO REASONS

Only the best qualified high school teachers, in SA category, will get an increase to $8,200 from $7,760, and SB-rated teachers will get an increase to $7,300 from $7,100. Raises become effective Jan. 1. The arbitration board was composed of chairman A. S. Cowan, Donald E. C. Anderson for teachers, and Carl H. F. P. Ledoux for trustees. No reasons were given for turning down requests of other teachers.

D. Wallace Robb, spokesman for Saanich teachers, said he felt the award reflected public opinion locally towards education.

WE'RE GLAD

"We're glad the salaries affected were brought to a level fairly near to Greater Victoria," he said. "But it's not just a question of teachers' salaries. There is a reluctance to spend more money on our educational system as a whole."

"It is particularly distressing to teachers in Saanich where our educational system has taken a step back with the third defeat of our school building bylaw."

Reginald Sinkinson, vice-chairman of Saanich school board, said he was glad the salary dispute was settled "amicably, and from our point of view it was a fair and just settlement."

Contract Awarded For Big Reservoir

A $41,533 contract for construction of a 500,000-gallon reservoir for the new Central Saanich water system was awarded by council last night. Job went to Farmer Construction Company the lowest of 14 bidders.

Work on the project will begin early in the new year and is expected to be finished by March.

Meanwhile, Central Saanich councillors are continuing their house-to-house canvass throughout the municipality to sign up ratepayers for the water system.

Before work can begin on the domestic system 150 ratepayers are needed on the rolls. A deposit of $100 is required with each signature.

Elk Lake-Patricia Bay pipeline, main artery in the water system, was acquired from the federal government in October after more than a year's negotiations.

Christmas 52 Years Ago Trencherman's Delight

YOU'LE TIDINGS: Ah, those were the days ...

Fond recollections of Christmas at the Empress 52 years ago, in 1908, are contained in a letter sent us by Mrs. Penelope Youle of Los Angeles.

"The Empress presented an atmosphere of richness and well being, propriety and sedateness that was thrilling," she said. "After lunch we rode along Marine Drive in an old-fashioned, one-horse, open carriage. The very English driver and his long whip, useless but very ornamental, are a vivid memory."

"Dinner at the Empress was an enchanting affair to the young woman from the U.S. middle west," recalls Mrs. Youle.

Enclosed with her letter was a gilt-edged menu of that fabulous Christmas dinner she had so long, long ago. It makes fascinating reading.

"Hor d'oeuvres varies; consommé printainier royal and clear green turtle soup; boiled spring salmon, sauce Mousse; line, potatoes hollandaise; braised sweetbread, Palmer; filet mignon grille a la mode; fresh artichokes, Vinaigrette.

"Prime ribs of beef au jus; roast turkey with cranberry sauce; mallard duck with fried hominy. Cauliflower, sauce supreme; spinach in cream with egg; potatoes: baked, mashed and rissoles.

"Grapefruit and orange salad; English plum pudding, hard and brandy sauce; home made mince pie; cranberry meringue pie; Christmas tartlets; assorted cakes; Neapolitan ice cream.

"Coffee or tea. Roquefort and Canadian Stilton cheese. Fruits."

The price of this magnificent dinner: $1.25! To bring us back to present day times it is noted that the Empress will again provide

Christmas dinner for an expected 550 guests this year. The price: $9.50 per person.

TRAVELLING IN STYLE: Santa Claus has already paid his annual visit to two lonely outposts off Vancouver Island, the helicopter, no less.

Christmas supplies were landed at Cape Scott at the northern tip of the Island and at Lennard Island, off Tofino, for the men who man the lighthouse beacons.

Captain A. F. Davidson of the lighthouse tender and ice-breaker Camels decided to use his ship's small helicopter when heavy seas made a boat landing precarious.

Pilot Robert Masters flew the turkey and the trimmings to the men who will spend the festive season at the rough, barren stations.

CHEAPER BY THE DOZEN: The inside employees at city hall will follow the lead set by their outside colleagues and will buy their children's Christmas party presents in Vancouver this year.

Previously they have bought the presents in bulk from a large city department store but have found they can save 33½ per cent by buying from a mainland wholesaler.

It's just another of the many headaches facing city merchants this year.

HOLY COW! A United Kingdom firm is about to start production on a commercial scale of foam-filled mattresses—for cows.

The mattresses are of a "restful green shade" and it is reported their use increases milk yields.

"It is only reasonable that where a cow ceases to lose heat to the floor she lies on, the energy from her food intake is conserved and she produces more milk as a result," said the U.K. Information Service, which passed on the item.

No-Bake Fruit Cake

What's Cooking!

By LOUISE MOORE

Here's a hospitality idea you'll appreciate—a delicious fruit cake that requires no baking. Firm and moist because it's made with evaporated milk, this cake is made in a large mixing bowl and stored in a corner of your refrigerator, saving precious oven space for other holiday delicacies. Make several loaves, then you'll always have one on hand to serve as a quick dessert... for unexpected guests or for spur-of-the-moment occasions such as inviting carolers in on Christmas Eve.

NO-BAKE FRUIT CAKE

(Makes 9x5x3-inch loaf)

Forty-eight (½ pound) marshmallows, ¼ cup undiluted evaporated milk, ½ cup canned unsweetened grapefruit juice, 1½ cups crushed vanilla wafers, 4½ cups crushed graham crackers, 1 cup ground almonds, 1 cup sliced toasted almonds, 1 cup finely chopped dried apricots, 1 cup chopped pitted dates, 1 cup chopped candied cherries.

Cut marshmallows into quarters. Pour evaporated milk and grapefruit juice over marshmallows and let stand 3 hours. Stir occasionally. Combine crushed vanilla wafers, graham crackers, ground almonds, sliced almonds, apricots, dates and cherries in a large bowl. Add marshmallow mixture. Mix well. Pack into a foil-lined 9x5x3-inch pan. Decorate top with almonds, glace cherries, and silver dragees if desired. Cover top with foil. Refrigerate several days before slicing.

FLUFFY COCONUT SAUCE

(Makes about 3 cups)

Half cup undiluted evaporated milk, 1 egg, ½ cup sifted icing sugar, 1½ teaspoons vanilla, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 cup flaked coconut.

Chill evaporated milk in refrigerator tray until soft ice crystals form around edges of tray (about 10 minutes). While evaporated milk is chilling, beat egg until thick. Gradually beat in sugar. Add vanilla and nutmeg. Whip chilled evaporated milk until stiff (about 1 minute). Add lemon juice. Whip very stiff (about 1 to 2 minutes longer). Gently fold beaten egg mixture and coconut into whipped evaporated milk. Sauce may be made and refrigerated one hour in advance, if desired. Serve on cake as desired and on steamed pudding or gingerbread.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I went together for a year and then we became engaged. The engagement lasted almost six months. I'm ashamed to tell you that during the engagement the pressure of his pleading was too much for me, and I gave in to him.

We have been married four months and are happy, except for one thing. Whenever we are among friends he gets on the subject of virgin-brides. When he insists, vehemently, that there isn't a girl in the whole world who waits till marriage, I want to crawl into a hole and die. I've tried to explain to him that when he talks like this he advertises the fact that he didn't get one. He says I'm wrong and that people always assume "present company is excluded." How about this?—RED IN THE FACE.

Dear Red: Your husband should stay off the subject and keep his big trap shut. Of course he places you in a terrible position when he makes these ugly comments.

I hope all you single girls are listening. This is another strong argument in favor of holding the fort. Many a guy who puts on a big pitch is disappointed when he wins The Great Debate. He becomes disillusioned about womanhood in general, and his own girl in particular. He may tell you it will never make a difference but too often when the great love begins to tarnish a little, the past is used as a club to beat you over the head.

Dear Ann Landers: You would be doing a lot of working people a favor if you'd publish this. Many college boys need to see it in print before they'll give it a thought.

I'm a night club waiter in a city where there are many college students. I know many of these kids aren't rich—in fact some struggle to get by. But it seems unfair to take a date to a club and sit there a whole evening, getting service, and then leave nothing for the waiter but a mess to clean up. Most of these kids come in four and six together. You'd think they could order one drink less, and scrape together a dollar to give to a waiter or waitress who serves them for three hours. They seem to think they are excused from tipping just because they're in school.

A waiter can handle just so many tables. In our club when one waiter gets four or five tables of college kids he knows he's going home with empty pockets. Is this fair?—D. D. W.

Dear D.D.W.: No, it isn't fair and I agree that college kids who can scare up the loot for a night out would do well to order one drink less and leave a waiter something. In fact, they could order several drinks less and do themselves a favor.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are having a misunderstanding concerning a relative. Please settle it. My sister's husband brags a lot and gets on my husband's nerves. I say the guy is a brother-in-law to my husband. My husband says he is nothing. Who is right?—SWORD'S POINT.

Dear Point: You both could be right. The guy may be nothing—(real nothing, that is) but men are brothers-in-law when they marry sisters.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love or Sex?" enjoying with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Your Little Girl

Dolly and Her Wardrobe Still Most Wanted Gift

The little boys on Santa's knee may be requesting toys and rockets—but the little girls are asking for dollies. And the most enchanting doll in the world is the one with her very own wardrobe!

The Mother or Aunt who sews can truly delight a small girl by sewing up an extra dress or two for a new Christmas doll—or a pretty new wardrobe for last year's doll.

A short cut to a spectacular doll's wardrobe suggested at local sewing centres, is to buy a few yards of felt and sew up skirts, jackets and bonnets in several gay shades that a small mother can put on and take off easily. Felt makes wonderful doll's clothes with relatively small effort, since it requires no hemming, is easy to stitch, and comes in such gay colors.

A circular skirt, dapper felt vest with tiny pearl buttons (for show only—there are easily-fastened domes underneath!) a flaring felt coat and a little matching bonnet can be made using as patterns the clothing most dolls come with.

As small mothers enjoy washing clothes much more than big ones do, it's wise to make up a good assortment of clothes that will withstand the hazards of being washed by a youngster. Although felt washes well, it requires cool water and takes most kindly to a special soap. Tiny mothers should be informed accordingly.

Cotton and flannel remnant in fast colors produce practical dresses and nightgowns for dolly, and washcloths can make dandy "terry-cloth" dressing gowns. A handkerchief is usually just large enough for a lace-edged petticoat, and a dish-towel can result in a most colorful nightgown. Fragile-looking party dresses can be fashioned from nylon or terylene, and the seams stitched sturdily to prevent fraying. They'll wash wonderfully and need no ironing, fortunately, since this is where small types usually lose interest!

Practical doll's clothes are those that small fingers can easily manage. To avoid ribbon ties and buttons, sewing centres experts recommend using dome fasteners under buttons and bows—the kind that aren't too hard to snap open and closed. Elastic chin- straps on hats and bonnets are helpful. Remember that such arrangements as panties attached to dresses are utterly frustrating to a small child.

Tips for Parents

By HELEN R. HEWSON

The man behind the wheel was once a child behind a toy wheel. His behaviour as a child is apt to be carried into adulthood, tending to become habitual.

The carefulness of our teaching in the early years is therefore important in developing a driver who is safe.

Part of our teaching will have to do with helping a child to deal with his emotions, so that he is a mentally healthy, happy youngster.

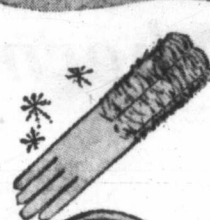

According to a noted psychiatrist, "emotional disorders disable a driver by distracting him. They do this chiefly by upsetting him with strong feelings of anger, jealousy, fear and so forth, or by making him an impersonal, uncaring individual who drives recklessly because he is covering up his humane feelings."

"When a driver is controlled by immoderate emotions... he may indulge in such dangerous practices as speeding, disregard of traffic signals, and straddling of lanes."

Kate Farquharson No Clock Watcher

By JAMES K. NESBITT

Mrs. Kate Farquharson, who has known more high secrets and intrigues of governments and politics than anyone else in British Columbia, goes into retirement in a few days, after more than 30 years as the attorney-general's private secretary.

Tall and gaunt, loyal and dependable, Mrs. Farquharson never once talked about all she knew that went on behind locked doors.

INSTITUTION

She has been an institution in the legislative buildings, an ornament to womanhood and the civil service. Her cheery greeting will be missed, and her kindness and her warm understanding of human frailties, and her crisp rebuke, if she deemed rebuke necessary. She taught a lesson in devotion to duty and she lived this fact: that if one takes on a job one must do that job as well as one possibly can, giving everything to it.

Kate Farquharson served politicians of many political faiths. She first became the AG's private secretary under Conservative Harry Pooley. Then came Liberal Gordon Sloan and Liberal Gordon Wismer, and then Conservative R. L. Maitland, and then Liberal Gordon Wismer again, and now Social Credit Robert Bonner, with three months serving Liberal T. D. Pattullo and a few days Liberal Norman Whittaker, in the stormy birth of Coalition, a birth which rocked the Buildings and shook the province in late 1941.

IN CRISIS

Through political crisis after political crisis, Kate Farquharson stood firm, solid as a rock, keeping her head while all around her people in high places lost theirs, rushing pell-mell in confusion. She made order out of chaos, she sometimes lectured her boss and told him he'd better watch his p's and q's. She guided them all, she wouldn't let them rattle her; she was patience on a monument, and she never lost her temper, though she knows how, coldly, to put certain people in their places.

Lawyers are notoriously temperamental and hot-tempered, and when a lawyer's an AG too the combination can sometimes be pretty ratty. Kate Farquharson ignored the whims and flights-of-fancy of her bosses, with a severe look that said: "Better get back to earth, boy." And, usually, the boss did just that. More than one AG has said: "Can't do it—Kate wouldn't approve."

She was never a clock-

Mrs. C. F., better known as Kate Farquharson, receives congratulations from Premier W. A. C. Bennett at the reception given recently by the government in honor of 30 civil servants who have been with the service more than 25 years. Mrs. Farquharson's retirement takes place shortly.

watcher. If the AG was in his office, Kate remained in hers. She never left until the chief was gone. During sessions Kate was always there, at night and into the dawn sometimes, because the boss might want something she knew he'd never find unless she was there to find it for him. "Men are hopeless when it comes to looking after themselves," Kate would say, by way of explaining her devotion to her work and her loyalty to the chief.

ONE LOOK

When visitors stayed too long and the AG was getting bogged down, Kate walked into his office and gave one of those looks and the visitors soon scurried away, and then in she went again and told the AG to get a move on with those letters, and to hop to that speech he must make next day, or he'd make an awful bawl-up of everything and so lose votes as well as making himself look foolish.

And then she'd bob back again with: "Don't forget you're due in Ottawa tomorrow—your brief case is packed. Don't leave it at the airport. And tell your wife not to forget your toothbrush—or I'll phone her. Between us we'll get you off somehow. And don't forget to come back, either."

Perhaps Attorney-General Bonner pays the finest of all possible tributes to Kate Farquharson when he says, and there's a catch in his voice as he says it: "I wish she was 30 years younger."

Miss Mac Bows Out From Canada House

By JANE ARMSTRONG

LONDON — At Canada House they still cannot believe it.

Miss Mac is leaving. This news will astonish those Canadians who have been invited to the High Commissioner's parties—the past eight HC's parties for that matter—or photographed the Queen at the trooping the color ceremony, or presented a daughter at court, or gone to a Buckingham Palace garden party, or to Ascot.

There must be thousands of them from every corner of Canada. They all have met pint-sized Ellen McLoughlin, the social secretary who dishes out the tickets and invitations from a dungeon-like back room on the first floor of Canada House.

A while ago she announced that she would retire to the country at Christmas. And that was that. If anyone protested Miss Mac added tartly that after 43 years at Canada House, "I can't go on forever."

MRS. HALTON

Miss McLoughlin's successor has been chosen. She is Mrs. Matthew Halton, widow of one of Canada's best known journalists and broadcasters. She has lived in London since 1932 and herself has a reputation as hostess and party giver. On Tuesday I went to Canada House for Miss Mac's last party. Oddly, although she has arranged hundreds there, this was the first for herself. It was to say goodbye. The High Commissioner George Drew and his daughter Mrs. David Scholey (Mrs. Drew had a cold) came as guests. And there were familiar faces from Buckingham Palace, the Commonwealth Relations Office, from Canadian circles.

AFTER WAR

As glasses clinked and the smoked salmon sandwiches disappeared, I asked Miss Mac how many cocktail parties she had given. It surprised me to hear that the cocktail party arrived at Canada House and every other embassy only after the war.

"There had been criticism if liquor was served at government parties especially with young people present. It wasn't done. Of course, now it's the youngsters who can drink more than all of us," she said. What sort of parties did our high commissioners give before the war? Miss McLoughlin's blue eyes glinted. "You'll hardly believe it," she said, "but Mrs. Howard Ferguson was at home to visitors from Canada every fortnight for tea and I was chief pourer-out. Booze was never offered. Of course there was wine at dinner parties but that was considered different."

It wasn't that Canada was more strait-laced than other countries; no diplomat's wife dreamt of giving a cocktail party. There were luncheons, dinners, evening receptions, and tea parties. Mrs. Vincent Massey introduced the cocktail party for Canada.

Paris Theatre Filled

By PAQUERETTE VILLENEUVE

PARIS (CP) — December in Paris, despite dreary skies and constant showers, holds a thousand pleasures for lovers of theatre and art. Nearly every evening a new play, revue or art show makes an appearance.

The month began with Impasse de la Fidelite (Dilemma of Fidelity), starring the famed Patachou.

La Logeuse (The Landlady) by d'Audubert followed. Lila Kedrova, in the lead role, has been considered a great actress since she played in L'ile des Chevres at Montreal.

Claudel's Christophe-Colombe is playing the Odeon. Jules Cesar, adapted by Yves Bonnefoy and interpreted by Pierre Blanchard, is running to good reviews.

Felicien Marceau, highly-praised author of L'Oeuf (The Egg), this year has presented L'Etoffe-Christien (The Smothered Christian).

TWO ACTORS QUIT

Ruy Blas has run into rehearsal difficulties at La Comedie-Francaise, with two actors walking out on director Raymond Rouleau after arguments. But theatre buffs here regard this as part of opening month tradition.

Francoise Sagan's Le Chateau en Suede (The Chateau in Sweden) has opened without a hitch while Jean Anouilh's Becket also is running smoothly. Le Spectacle Lonesome has opened for its fifth year.

Edwige Feuillere has taken the role of the grand tragedien at the Theatre Sarah-Bernhardt. She plays the lead in Constance by Somerset Maugham and in L'Aigle a Deux Tetes (The Eagle has Two Heads) by Jean Cocteau to the immense satisfaction of her admirers.

For art lovers, the Galliera Museum offers "some portraits of women, yesterday and today." Included are 18th century portraits by Fragonard and 19th century works by Degas, Mary Cassatt and Marie Laurencin.

The music hall has featured two well-received recitals by Judy Garland. The Moscow circus was in town. And at the cinema, Brigitte Bardot in La Verite (The Truth) has drawn tremendous crowds since her recent attempted suicide.

Model Hat Prize For Dressy Golfer

Participants in the women's section of The Daily Colonist annual golf tournament on Dec. 26 are going to have an easy time this year. But that doesn't mean they are going to lose out on any of the trimmings.

The fair sex won't start so early as in former years. It will be about 11:30 a.m. before the first group tee off to cover the nine hole course.

Each contestant will be presented with a gay daffodil and will receive a special gift from the Hudson's Bay Company.

Another prize, a model hat, will go to the woman wearing the most noticeable costume.

The tournament will be held at Uplands Golf Course for both men and women and presentations will be held in the Club house at the finish. Hot roast beef sandwiches and coffee will be served at the afternoon affair.

There are still a few openings in the women's section. Entry fee of $2.50 should be sent to "Golf," Daily Colonist, giving name, address, club and handicap.

World Vision

'Jet Preacher' Flying Again

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) —
A battered brown leather suitcase and a worn Bible—veterans of a dozen trips around the world—are the work tools of Bob Pierce, head of an organization known as World Vision and probably the most-travelled preacher in the world.

Pierce, a Baptist minister, has logged nearly 3,000,000 miles—most of them en route to remote, hard-to-reach parts of the world—since the founding 10 years ago of his interdenominational World Vision.

Probably the best known of World Vision's projects is its program to care for Korean orphans.

But Pierce's work goes far beyond that. He is doing what he can for leprosy victims and their families, tubercular patients and other sick and uncared-for persons throughout Asia.

Called the "jet-propelled preacher," Pierce says: "We don't take the place of the church anywhere. We work through whatever existing group is there and we try to help in whatever way we can."

Pierce has also taken it upon himself to help native pastors in their efforts to spread Christianity.

"The Communists are constantly pouring propaganda into these countries to fight Christianity," he said. "We think our conferences bringing these pastors together—from all branches of the Christian faith—help to strengthen them in their beliefs."

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Lena Ashwell tells how overjoyed she was when she was invited to meet the famous portrait painter, Sir John Sargent. Strangely enough she was afraid of not making a good impression, a curious timidity for an actress who succeeded Ellen Terry as Sir Henry Irving's leading lady.

Trembling with eagerness
she went up the staircase, the door was flung open and with grave formality the footman announced, "Miss Lena Ash-well." Just then some demonic protuberance sprang up to catch her foot and the poor, proud beauty fell headlong into the presence of the great!

THEY BOUNCE

Every great man at some time or other has fallen flat on his face, but he bounced. That is one of the most important differences between great men and the rest of us; they can bounce.

The young Winston Churchill, addressing thousands of people, began bravely "Mr.
Chairman, ladies and gentlemen..." Then, he says, his mind went blank and he just sat down! From that time Churchill wrote out his speeches, shook the notes in the faces of the audience at the very beginning to disown subterfuge and had them if he needed them. During the 30s I heard Churchill boomed repeatedly, but what a quality of bounce the man had!

LAUGH NOW

In his maiden speech in the House of Commons, Disraeli failed badly and the House laughed, but the young statesman threw back into the teeth of his tormentors a defiant,
"You may laugh at me now, but the time will come when you will hear me!" It did.

Edison failed on an experiment more than 700 times, until his assistant had lost all his patience. "What do we do now?" he quavered. "We know 700 ways it won't work," said the unsinkable Edison. He had been sent home from school by a teacher as utterly hopeless, too stupid to learn, and his mother had taken over his education.

LEARN THE WAY

All of us fall flat on our faces. The great men not only survive failure, but are educated by failure, like the artist who said that a truly fine painting had to be spoiled

Business Manager 'Asset' to Churches

Members of Victoria's clergy yesterday agreed a business manager would be an asset in administering business affairs of large churches.

They were asked to comment on a news report that many large U.S. congregations are hiring business managers.

Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Cathedral said one of the difficulties of running a modern parish is the number of administration details involved.

GREAT BENEFIT

vided by a suitably qualified layman would certainly prove a great benefit and release the clergyman for the work for which he was primarily ordained.

"I don't think parsons make the best businessmen," said
Canon George Biddle of St.
John's Anglican Church.

VESTRY PRAISED

"They live a different life than the average layman. Our church business is handled by the 12 members of the vestry, who are all busy businessmen themselves. If St. John's Church has had any success it is due to these fine businessmen and my people of course."

EVERY NIGHT

Rev. A. I. Higgins of First United Church said: "A business manager would be an asset with a congregation the
1,000)."

He said the minister had to co-ordinate all church activities. Every night of the week was taken up running things.

businessman," said Rev. F. E.
H. James of Metropolitan

Japan Fastest In Shipbuilding

LONDON (Reuters) — The Japanese built a ship in less than half the time it takes British shipyards, a research report on the British shipbuilding industry said Thursday.

The report by the department of scientific and industrial research said the average construction time from start of work to completion between 1957 and 1959 was:

Britain 19 months, West Germany 10 months, Sweden nine months, and Japan eight months.

Police Race Time

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two RCMP officers have started a 6,000-mile race against time to prevent the release of promoter George Caidough, held for five weeks in England in connection with fraud warrants sworn out here earlier this year.

A London magistrate has said Caidough will be released unless the evidence is presented Dec. 23 to show there are sufficient grounds to order him sent here to face the charges.

Cpl. Joseph Sehl and Cpl. B. C. Johnson are collating 2,000 pages of evidence taken at a special hearing here this week before Magistrate Les Bewley. The evidence, signed by the magistrate on every page, will be certified by a B.C. Supreme Court registrar.

On Top Floor Only

Keeping Juveniles in Jail May Be Illegal, City Told

Legality of detaining juveniles in the top floor of the city jail building will be investigated by the Greater Victoria Inter-municipal committee.

Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay yesterday called for quick action on provision of a home with adequate segregation and security facilities.

But, although Coun. G. K. Sammon of Esquimalt noted that "we all agree conditions up there (at the present Coldharbour Road home) are unsatisfactory," he and Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt persuaded the committee that a study should be made of the alternative to a new home.

Reeve Murdoch and City Manager C. C. Wyatt expressed doubt that the top floor of the jail, although sealed off from the rest, could legally be used. Coun. Sammon, however, said that New Westminster, for example, had no detention home "and can cope within the provincial law."

He said the chairman paid little heed to a union requirement that all publicity would be released through a committee of three.

Pandemonium, Not Peace Inspires Island Musician

By CHARLES THOMPSON

COWICHAN STATION — While most artists demand complete quiet for their creativity, the bard of Cowichan Station and a successful bard, at that, prefers his own brand of utter pandemonium.

His musical compositions are somehow put together with a background chorus consisting of three romping children, two barking dogs, the mooing family cow and a meowing cat.

Having just sold 28 pieces of music to U.S. publishers it is unlikely that Peter Knauer will change his unusual formula for living even if he wanted to — which he quite emphatically does not.

Said Mr. Knauer at his home yesterday, "I'd rather be a piano tuner here than a successful music writer in the U.S."

Fresh from a trip to the Los Angeles area where he signed three contracts, he said, "The pace is too fast there."

"Many people are grasping and businesslike and cruel. It doesn't help an artist. The people are more down to earth here."

He is happy making a precarious living remaking pianos and tuning them at his home here in an old house beside the Koksilah River.

He feels that Canada has made him, and as a tribute he wrote his "Canadian Dance Suite" which has been published in Europe and is selling well in sheet music.

"We both always wanted to live somewhere like this or on a farm where it was quiet and we could have our own animals," said Mr. Knauer. He and his wife, Ingrid, grew up in Germany and remember vividly the "un-

"We both always wanted to live somewhere like this or on a farm where it was quiet and we could have our own animals," said Mr. Knauer. He and his wife, Ingrid, grew up in Germany and remember vividly the "unpleasantness" of war. They came to Canada six years ago "because of the possibilities" and because the people are willing to accept new things here.

"I hadn't any idea of writing music in Europe, and one day about five years ago on the way to Toronto I started," he said.

The couple worked on farms in Ontario and he tried to make extra money playing an electric clavichord in bars and on television. He was unsuccessful and finally they gave up four years ago and came here to set up his music business.

On Nov. 2 they became Canadian citizens and three days later left to assault some of the 400 music publishers in Los Angeles. "We spent a discouraging month there, until we met the right one," he said.

He signed three contracts: the first giving the publisher exclusive rights to accept or reject everything he produces for five years, a second to use the records of 28 pieces of music he wrote and recorded for the company, and another for his possible services as a piano player.

"But the amazing thing is that I got $125 spot cash from them. Usually they don't give any money to unknowns until something has been sold. They even had to put out quite a bit of money for the recordings," he said.

Send 'Em
Back
To Africa'Feed the Niggers Hay' Orleans Crowd Yells

By JOHN G. WARNER

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The White Citizens Council held a mass meeting last night in its battle to halt integration of public schools in New Orleans.

The meeting was interrupted repeatedly by shouts of "Kill the niggers," "Feed 'em hay," and "Send 'em back to Africa." One of the evening's attractions was the trotting of seven grade-school-age children on stage. Three girls and one boy wore exaggerated blackface while two boys and one girl wore no makeup. The children hugged each other and made loud smacking noises, switching partners so that each "Negro" smooched a white.

"Is that what you want?" council president Dr. Emmett

Stand Up and Fight

State superintendent of education Shelby Jackson told the crowd to "stand up and fight... and you will have freedom."

Frank Voelker, chairman of the state sovereignty commission, called for President Eisenhower or President-elect John Kennedy to suspend integration decisions which have resulted in four Negro girls' attendance at two previously white-only public schools here. Voelker told the 2,500 persons at the meeting that

White Students Only

"The white schools will accept white students and the black schools will accept colored," he said.

He called on the Negroes of New Orleans to "come and take those colored children out of these schools just like the whites have done." He said Negroes are treated better in Louisiana than anywhere else. "Isn't it true Mississippi hasn't been integrated yet because they rattled their sword louder than we did?" he asked.

Council president Erwin called for members to give

Louisianans "are not called upon to abide by the actions of our legally constituted courts when their actions amount to judicial tyranny."

Louisiana Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr., told the group "I'm not against Negroes. I think they're entitled to some of the same human rights we are."

Last-Ditch Move
Integration Stall

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Louisiana's attorney general, in a sudden state move to unseat the New Orleans school board and end integration, told a federal court yesterday that he is the school board's new lawyer.

The state's last-ditch power play was indicated until governor Jimmie Davis walked into the federal courtroom here that he has taken pains to avoid in the past, even when subpoenaed.

He left before the hearing ended, and the three-judge federal court took under advisement the mass of motions and requests before it. A ruling is not expected until next week.

The court, which has thwarted every previous move of the state to stop integration of two elementary schools, met to rule on the constitutionality of a new law to fire the school board. It also heard the school board's request for an order directing four city banks and the city revenue department to give the school board its money.

The law firing the school board was upheld in the state supreme court Thursday, but a temporary restraining order was issued earlier by a federal court barring its enforcement. The legislature has passed an almost identical bill, but Davis has not signed it.

House Divorced
From Divorces

OTTAWA (UPI)—The House of Commons yesterday temporarily gave up its responsibility for dissolving Quebec and Newfoundland marriages in one of the most surprising parliamentary developments in recent years.

A private member's bill sponsored by Dr. Morton (PC-Toronto-Davenport) went through the House in near-record time and rid the Commons of the duty of studying

Divorce petitions from two provinces now without divorce courts would then only require investigation and approval by the Upper House if Morton's bill is approved by the Senate. The legislation would probably be considered by the Senate next week.

WORLD'S WORST AIR CRASH
KILLS 134, LEVELS BLOCKAirliners Plunge
Into New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Two airliners, one a jet, collided during a snowstorm over New York Friday and plunged into the city. At least 134 persons were killed in the worst disaster in aviation's history.

Of 128 persons aboard the two planes, the sole survivor was one small boy.

Survivor of the holocaust was Stephen Baltz, 11, of Chicago, on his way here to join his mother in a visit to relatives. He fell into a snowbank badly burned.

CANADIANS DIE

Two Canadians were listed among the passengers and believed dead.

The United Airlines jet, coming from Chicago, plunged were being monitored for clues.

The two Canadians were Beverly Parks of Halifax, 22, an off-duty stewardess aboard the United plane, and Thomas Rapkin, a Columbus, Ohio, radio producer whose father lives in Toronto, aboard the TWA plane.

STEPHEN BALTZ
... started to fallHurtling Boy
'Rode' Seat

By HARRY J. STATHOS

NEW YORK (UPI)—"It looked like a picture out of a fairy book. It was a beautiful sight."

Eleven-year-old Stephen Baltz of Wilmette, Ill., remembered looking out the window of the United Airlines DC-8 jet bringing him to New York for a holiday visit with his grandparents and seeing snow covering the city.

Seconds later the huge plane plunged into a row of brown houses in the heart of Brooklyn, killing 83 passengers and crewmen. Only Stephen, aboard the plane by a quirk of fate, survived.

CRUMPLED BODY
Rescuers found the crumpled body of the red-haired boy in the street outside the row of houses.

Critically burned on the hands, arms and chest and with one leg broken, young Baltz fought for his life last night in hospital. Eight doctors worked to save him.

Young Baltz told the doctor of looking out the window and seeing snow drifting down on the city, a sudden explosion and the sickening fall.

STARTED TO FALL
"Then all of a sudden there was an explosion. The plane started to fall and people started to scream," Stephen told a doctor.

Originally, he was to have flown to New York a few days ago to visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Snyder of Yonkers, N.Y. But a throat infection forced him to remain at home last week while his mother and sister, Randee, 9, flew east.

Mrs. Baltz and Randee were waiting for Stephen at the Idlewild international airport. They rushed to his bedside.

Mrs. Baltz could only sob "Thank God."

"Don't worry about Stevie," Randee told her mother. "He'll be all right."

Once, Stephen roused from the emergency room table to tell doctors his mother was waiting for him at the airport.

He managed to tell the doctors he held onto his seat as the airliner hurtled to the ground.

WOKE UP HERE
"That's all I remember until I woke up here," he said.

Hospital chaplain Donald Stacey said several rescuers found Stephen on the street, his clothing aflame, Jimmy Troiano of Brooklyn, one of the rescuers, said the boy was clutching something in his hand that looked like a small radio. He kept saying, "Mommy, Daddy."

Will Each Get $15

Victoria's 500 neediest families this year will receive $15 each from The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund.

Decision was reached yesterday to set the total in the hope that an additional number of families could be helped — above the list of 500 already compiled.

ALL-TIME HIGH
The number of families desperately needing a hand so that some semblance of a happy Christmas can be marked is at an all-time high, and social workers are at wit's end trying to choose 500 neediest families from a total nearer to 1,000.

With four days remaining to give to the fund, it is felt that probably 100 additional families can be helped — with a possibility of still more drawing a helping hand.

Total of $7,500 is needed to send $15 to 500 families, and this now is in sight.

ENLARGE FUND
Decision to enlarge the fund this year was taken when Colonist officials and welfare workers faced the fact that welfare rolls in Greater Victoria have jumped by as much as 300 per cent.

The fund must close at 5 p.m. Tuesday so that cheques can be delivered in time for Christmas food and gift shopping.

Each additional family aided also will receive $15.

There is still time to mail or bring a donation to the main office of the Colonist at 2631 Douglas Street or the downtown office at 1215 Broad Street.

Flying Fish Flies Low

Hydrofoil

'Fish' Falters Again

The hydrofoil vessel Flying Fish made its second visit to Victoria yesterday and for the second time left its operators a little red-faced.

It developed engine trouble, and when it left for Bellingham officials thought it would have to ride the water conventionally, at reduced speed, instead of skimming along on its hydrofoils.

FLEW ALL RIGHT

An official told The Colonist from Bellingham last night, however, that after leaving the Victoria waterfront around 1.30 p.m., it "flew" all right, and he was back in his office before 4.

On its previous trip it took 4½ hours to get back to Bellingham because, officials said, it was caught by darkness off Anacortes.

NO DOUBT

Yesterday's trouble appeared to cause the operators no doubt about starting a trial service between Bellingham and Victoria early in January.

They issued a schedule for trial service from Jan. 4, continuing through the month, five days a week.

TWO-HOUR TRIPS

Schedule for the 60-passenger craft calls for two-hour trips between Bellingham and Victoria.

Fridays, according to the schedule, Flying Fish will leave Bellingham at 9 a.m.,

arriving at Harbor Marine at 11 a.m.; leave Victoria at 11.30 a.m. and arrive at Bellingham 1.30 p.m.; leave Bellingham 2.30 p.m. and arrive at Victoria at 4.30 p.m., spending the night in Victoria.

Saturdays the times will be the same, but the destinations the other way around, since the first "flight" will be from Victoria. Sundays the schedule will be the same as on Fridays.

the same, but the destinations the other way around, since the first "flight" will be from Victoria. Sundays the schedule will be the same as on Fridays.

OUT OF SERVICE

Mondays, Flying Fish will leave Victoria at 9 a.m. and will be pulled out of service until Wednesday mornings for maintenance and repairs. Wednesdays and Thursdays there will be a single round trip each day, leaving Bellingham at 9 a.m. and Victoria at 2.30 p.m.

Fare has been set at $5 one way, $8 return.

Victim and Driver Both Blamed For Traffic Death

Blame for a Sooke traffic death was divided between the victim and the car driver by a coroner's jury yesterday.

David Corrie, 56, of Maple Avenue in Sooke, died at 10.15 p.m. Tuesday, four hours after being struck by a car driven by Haughton Potter Gibson, 83, opposite the latter's home in Sooke village.

JURY'S VERDICT

The jury's verdict said "Mr. Gibson was not entirely without blame," after reporting that Mr. Corrie died "due to his refusal of proper medical treatment, in that he refused to accept a blood transfusion."

Dr. Jeffrey W. Bishop said Corrie, a Jehovah's Witness, twice refused to accept a blood transfusion, although he was in a state of shock and bleeding profusely from a severe scalp cut.

"If the patient had received a transfusion," asked a juror, "what would you say of his chance of survival?"

"Very good," the doctor replied. "In fact, I'd go further. If he'd had a transfusion, in my opinion he'd be alive today."

Injuries, said pathologist Dr. Garth L. Walter, who performed an autopsy, included fractures of seven ribs on one side and 11 on the other, a cut liver, other cuts and abrasions and internal injuries.

Dr. Malcolm I. Mackay, who attended the victim at the hospital, agreed that if he had received a transfusion "he would have had an excellent chance of survival."

DRIVE ACROSS

Mr. Gibson said it was his practice, because of curves in the highway, to drive across the road when making a right turn, then back onto the travelled portion.

He had crossed when he heard "a bang." He stopped almost at once ("within a few feet"), opened the door, and saw a man's head right under the car.

He went to a nearby store to ask that help be summoned, then waited for the ambulance and police.

Disposal Of Ashes Allowed

Cemetery operators may now dispose of ashes of persons cremated if they have received no instructions from relatives within one year, according to a Public Utilities Commission order approved by provincial cabinet yesterday.

They may also charge a storage fee of $3 for urns. At a public hearing some time ago operators complained that their storage space was taken up with unclaimed urns of ashes.

Before they can dispose of the ashes the operators must apply to the PUC for permission.

Sudbury At Sea Christmas

Crewmen of the Victoria deepsea tug Sudbury II won't make it home for Christmas this year, but with luck and good weather they'll be here before New Year.

Capt. Harley Blagborne, 3148 Westdowne, reported his latest position mid-way between Hawaii and California, bound for San Francisco with a pair of tanker midsections in tow.

LAST MAY

Sudbury II left Victoria last May to start a record-breaking series of trans-Pacific tows. A spokesman for Island Tug and Barge said yesterday it was hoped she would reach home port "sometime between Christmas and New Year."

Early in January, with a new master and crew, Sudbury II will begin another series of deepsea towing jobs, picking up two former Liberty ships here bound for a Japanese scrapyard.

One of the obsolete ships is now being readied for the long voyage at Yarrow's Ltd. shipyards and the second is due to arrive here this weekend.

TWO DAYS AGO

Meanwhile, Cambrian Salvor, sister ship of Sudbury II, left Kobe, Japan, two days ago for San Francisco where she is scheduled to pick up another double-tow.

Sudbury II towed two ships to Japan for scrapping, and now on the return voyage, is bringing tanker mid-sections back across the Pacific.

Referendum Requested

Coun. John Watts said yesterday Oak Bay ratepayers who voted down a referendum on pay for reeve and councillors Dec. 8 made an "incorrect decision." He was supported by two other councillors.

Coun. Watts also said council itself "must bear some responsibility" in the failure of the referendum because it failed to state the issues more clearly.

OPEN LETTER

Outlining his future actions in a signed open letter to residents of Oak Bay, Coun. Watts said he would:

● Seek immediate repeal of a bylaw passed by council last year allowing the reeve $720 a year and each councillor $240 to cover out-of-pocket expenses.

● Press for holding of another vote "as soon as possible" on the pay referendum.

HEARTILY ENDORSED

Both Coun. Fred Robinson and Coun. Gordon Elworthy, who also signed the letter, said they "heartily endorsed" its contents.

Coun. Watts said the present amounts paid to council members are "trivial" and cannot be considered as covering loss of income while carrying out council business.

He said if future councillors refuse to absorb this and other costs caused by attendance to council business during normal working hours, "we shall have to resort to using appointed officials to represent us."

LIFT LOAD

To take the added load off senior municipal officials, who are already fully occupied, Coun. Watts said, eventually Oak Bay would be forced into hiring a municipal manager at a cost that will likely run to some $16,000 a year.

While the present reeve, George Murdoch, was both willing and able to make the financial sacrifice necessary to fill the office, inevitably a successor must be found when he wishes to retire.

BEING FAIR

Job of reeve in Oak Bay "is fast becoming one requiring about half of a capable man's total effort," said Coun. Watts. "Are we being fair in saying to any man that he must sacrifice a large part of his earnings in order to serve us as reeve?"

Coun. Watts who campaigned for payment for reeve and councillors in last week's election was re-elected for a two-year term, along with Coun. Robinson and Coun. Fred Hawes. The reeve strongly opposed the referendum, which was designed to obtain a guide for further council action on the pay issue.

Small Car Drops 10 Feet Comes to Rest at Cabin

Crash of a small car into the lawn of a Gorge Road auto court was the most spectacular of a series of accidents last night in the Greater Victoria area.

AB Allen Ray Mikitka, 755 Lampson, driver who was thrown from the car and knocked unconscious, was taken to HMCS Naden Hospital for a checkup.

While passing a car driven by William F. Parker, 3344 Happy Valley, his small car grazed the side of the Parker car, careened against a 16-inch-diameter power pole, flipped through the air and dropped about 10 feet to a lawn below street level.

The vehicle came to rest against the side of cabin No. 2, Victoria Auto Court, 99 Gorge West.

Occupant, Mrs. W. Merriss, said, "I was watching the Brooklyn plane crash on television when I heard a series of crashes.

"I thought, 'Oh no, not here!' I ran to see if my children (ages 8, 4 and 2) were all right. They were still asleep."

Four persons were taken to hospital from a two-car crash at Douglas and Frances at 6.15 p.m.

In satisfactory condition, with back injuries, in Naden Hospital is AB Gerald Roy, 25, 127 Bushby, driver. Treated for shock and bruises at St. Joseph's Hospital was a passenger, Camille Cyr, 29, 2836 Heath. Treated for minor cuts and bruises at Royal Jubilee Hospital were Grace Fitton, 38, and her eight-year-old son James, passengers in a car driven by Ronald E. Fitton, RR2, Sooke who escaped injury.

Eleven-year-old Douglas Adamson, 2819 Colquitz, was treated at St. Joseph's for scrapes to the face, a cut on the thigh and a broken thumb, after his bicycle collided with a car driven by Douglas H. Alderson, 108 Bruce, on Admirals Road.

Robert Tong, 13, 537 Cormorant, was treated at the same hospital for a cut hand after his bicycle collided with a car driven by Alfred Currel, 834 Pembroke, at Quadra and Pembroke.

Four cars were damaged in an accident on Douglas near Chatham at 8.15 p.m. Three cars were stopped in the line of traffic when the fourth, driven by Hans Schmitt, 1130 View, struck the rear of one driven by Dennis J. Beckwith, 1631 Myrtle, knocking it into the rear of one driven by John Barnard, 3553 Wascana, which in turn struck one driven by James Quinn, 975 Fairfield.

Christmas 52 Years Ago Trencherman's Delight

YOU'LE TIDINGS: Ah, those were the days...

Fond recollections of Christmas at the Empress 52 years ago, in 1908, are contained in a letter sent us by Mrs. Penelope Youle of Los Angeles.

"The Empress presented an atmosphere of richness and well being, propriety and sedateness that was thrilling," she said. "After lunch we rode along Marine Drive in an old-fashioned, one-horse, open carriage. The very English driver and his long whip, useless but very ornamental, are a vivid memory."

"Dinner at the Empress was an enchanting affair to the young woman from the U.S. middle west," recalls Mrs. Youle.

Enclosed with her letter was a gilded menu of that fabulous Christmas dinner she had so long, long ago. It makes fascinating reading.

"Hor d'oeuvres varies; consommé printanier royal and clear green turtle soup; boiled spring salmon; sauce Mousse-line, potatoes hollandaise; braised sweetbread, Palmer; filet mignon grille a la mode; fresh artichoke, Vinaigrette.

"Prime ribs of beef au jus; roast turkey with cranberry sauce; mallard duck with fried hominy. Cauliflower, sauce supreme; spinach in cream with egg; potatoes; baked, mashed and rissoles.

"Grapefruit and orange salad; English plum pudding, hard and brandy sauce; home made mince pie; cranberry meringue pie; Christmas tarts; assorted cakes; Neapolitan ice cream.

"Coffee or tea. Roquefort and Canadian Stilton cheese. Fruits."

The price of this magnificent dinner: $1.25! To bring us back to present day times it is noted that the Empress will again provide

Christmas dinner for an expected 550 guests this year. The price: $9.50 per person.

TRAVELLING IN STYLE: Santa Claus has already paid his annual visit to two lonely outposts off Vancouver Island — by helicopter, no less.

Christmas supplies were landed at Cape Scott at the northern tip of the Island and at Lennard Island, off Tofofo, for the men who man the lighthouse beacons.

Captain A. F. Davidson of the lighthouse tender and ice-breaker Camself decided to use his ship's small helicopter when heavy seas made a boat landing precarious.

Pilot Robert Masters flew the turkey and the trimmings to the men who will spend the festive season at the rough, barren stations.

CHEAPER BY THE DOZEN: The inside employees at city hall will follow the lead set by their outside colleagues and will buy their children's Christmas party presents in Vancouver this year.

Previously they have bought the presents in bulk from a large city department store but have found they can save 33½ per cent by buying from a mainland wholesaler.

It's just another of the many headaches facing city merchants this year.

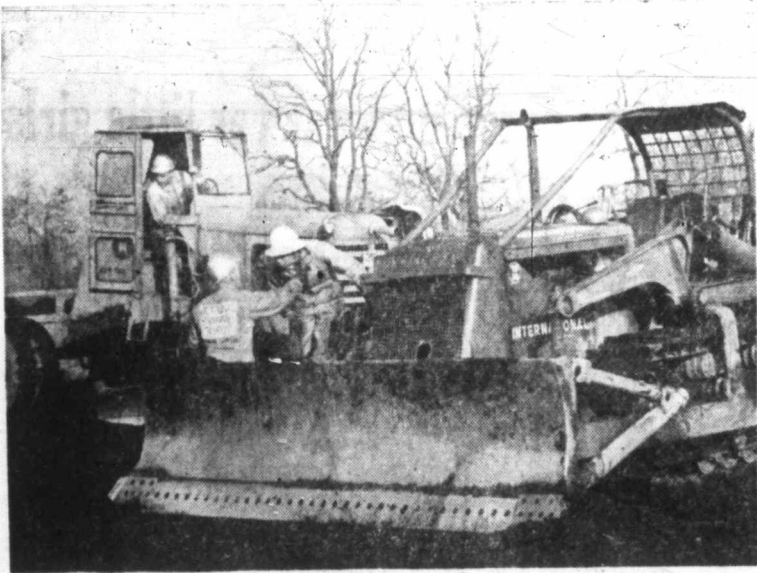

HOLY COW! A United Kingdom firm is about to start production on a commercial scale of foam-filled mattresses — for cows.

The mattresses are of a "restful green shade" and it is reported their use increases milk yields.

"It is only reasonable that where a cow ceases to lose heat to the floor she lies on, the energy from her food intake is conserved and she produces more milk as a result," said the U.K. Information Service, which passed on the item.

Stepped Casually Out

Driver Didn't Realize His Car Flipped Twice

DUNCAN—The driver of a car that was wrecked last night stepped out of his vehicle and casually surveyed the damage without realizing the car had rolled over twice after colliding with another car.

Free from serious injury, contractor Tom Joyce, Bell McKinnon Road north of here, said: "I didn't know it turned over until the other driver told me."

Mr. Joyce said his car was wrecked in the accident about 5.45 p.m. yesterday on the Trans-Canada Highway at Norcross Road. He said he was driving south on the highway, then turned his signal lights on to turn left to Norcross Road, a block from his home.

Driver of the other car was Jasper A. Sutherland, of Campbell River. His car had severe damage to its front end but could be driven away.

EDGE OF ROAD

Said Mr. Sutherland: "There was a kid on a bike on the edge of the road, and I was watching him. I'd just passed the kid on the bike when I hit the other car. The lights of the cars coming at me blinded me."

His car collided with Joyce's on the left rear, and sent it rolling down and across the highway where it landed in a ditch. Joyce's car was a five-year-old European model with the engine in the back. Sutherland's is a large American model.

Mr. Joyce suffered a cut head and bruised left elbow.

Courtenay

Union of Jobless Loses Two Leaders

COURTENAY—A recently formed unemployed union here whose main target so far has been the RCAF showed signs of disintegration yesterday with the resignations of two members of the group's organizing committee.

Recording secretary Paul Servant quit his post for "personal reasons" but the committee said it was because he could not tolerate reaction to newspaper publicity engendered by the union.

PRESS STATEMENTS

Unemployed logger Hunter Babcock quit after objecting to press statements made by committee chairman David McGarvie.

He said the chairman paid little heed to a union requirement that all publicity would be released through a committee of three.

Mr. McGarvie made headlines on more than one occasion by charging extensive "moonlighting" in the Courtenay-Comox area by personnel of the Comox RCAF station.

MOONLIGHTING

Earlier this week his charges brought promise of a "moonlighting" probe on the station by commanding officer Group Capt. Robert Miller, who said he had no intention of asking RCAF members to quit after hours jobs off the station, but would prove false the unemployed union's accusations.

Logger Babcock said he was "sick and tired of the whole thing."

"Instead of the committee being looked up to, we're being

Duncan Area Will Have Road Blocks

DUNCAN—Flying roadblocks to curb drinking drivers will start here soon, police warned last night.

Corp. Hockstetter said the highway detail, of which he is in charge, has been doubled.

Const. J. G. O'Neill of Colwood detachment has been transferred here. Const. James Wilson has been moved from general duties to highways at this detachment. The two new men raise strength of the detail to four.

Pandemonium, Not Peace Inspires Island Musician

By CHARLES THOMPSON

COWICHAN STATION—While most artists demand complete quiet for their creativity, the band of Cowichan Station—and a successful bard, at that—prefers his own brand of utter pandemonium.

His musical compositions are somehow put together with a background chorus consisting of three romping children, two barking dogs, the moaning family cow and a meowing cat.

And lest this fail to provide just the right degree of general distraction he interrupts his composing to rebuild and tune pianos.

Having just sold 28 pieces of music to U.S. publishers it is unlikely that Peter Knauer will change his unusual formula for living even if he wanted to—which he quite emphatically does not.

Said Mr. Knauer at his home yesterday, "I'd rather be a piano tuner here than a successful music writer in the U.S."

Fresh from a trip to the Los Angeles area where he signed three contracts, he said, "The pace is too fast there."

"Many people are grasping and businesslike and cruel. It doesn't help an artist. The people are more down to earth here."

He is happy making a precarious living remaking pianos and tuning them at his home here in an old house beside the Koksilah River.

He feels that Canada has made him, and as a tribute he wrote his "Canadian Dance Suite" which has been published in Europe and is selling well in sheet music.

"We both always wanted to live somewhere like this or on a farm where it was quiet and

Send 'Em Back To Africa

'Feed the Niggers Hay'
Southern Crowd Yells

By JOHN G. WARNER

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The White Citizens Council held a mass meeting last night in its battle to halt integration of public schools in New Orleans.

The meeting was interrupted repeatedly by shouts of "Kill the niggers," "Feed 'em hay," and "Send 'em back to Africa." One of the evening's attractions was the trooping of seven grade-school-age children on stage. Three girls and one boy wore exaggerated blackface while two boys and one girl wore no makeup. The children hugged each other and made loud smacking noises, switching partners so that each "Negro" smooched a white. "Is that what you want?" council president Dr. Emmett

A man wearing a vest made of a Confederate flag waved a sign reading: "Integration means race mongrelization."

Commissionaires patrolled the aisles hawking Confederate flags and rebel army caps.

Pamphlets on "God gave the law of segregation—as well as the 10 Commandments — to Moses on Mount Sinai," and "Race mixing a religious fraud" were distributed.

Stand Up and Fight

State superintendent of education Shelby Jackson told the crowd to "stand up and fight . . . and you will have freedom."

Frank Voelker, chairman of the state sovereignty commission, called for President Eisenhower or President-elect John Kennedy to suspend integration decisions which have resulted in four Negro girls' attendance at two previously white-only public schools here. Voelker told the 2,500 persons at the meeting that

Louisianans "are not called upon to abide by the actions of our legally constituted courts when their actions amount to judicial tyranny."

Louisiana Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr. told the group "I'm not against Negroes. I think they're entitled to some of the same human rights we are."

"Louisiana will go from public to private schools so every child will have a cheque or money to go to the school of his choice," Martin said.

White Students Only

"The white schools will accept white students and the black schools will accept colored," he said.

He called on the Negroes of New Orleans to "come and take those colored children out of these schools just like the whites have done." He said Negroes are treated better in Louisiana than anywhere else. "Isn't it true Mississippi hasn't been integrated yet because they rattled their sword louder than we did?" he asked. Council president Erwin called for members to give

The legislature yesterday passed new laws to replace the city school board with a state-appointed board, and the state supreme court upheld a law passed earlier this year which had the same purpose.

The earlier law was rendered unenforceable by an injunction requested by the justice department and a similar action was expected this week against yesterday's law.

Last-Ditch Move Integration Stall

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Louisiana's attorney general, in a sudden state move to unseat the New Orleans school board and end integration, told a federal court yesterday that he is the school board's new lawyer.

The state's last-ditch power play wasn't indicated until Gov. Jimmie Davis walked into the federal courtroom here that he has taken pains to avoid in the past, even when subpoenaed.

He left before the hearing ended, and the three-judge federal court took under advisement the mass of motions and requests before it. A ruling is not expected until next week.

The court, which has thwarted every previous move of the state to stop integration of two elementary schools, met to rule on the constitutionality of a new law to fire the school board. It also heard the school board's request for an order directing four city banks and the city revenue department to give the school board its money.

The law firing the school board was upheld in the state supreme court Thursday, but a temporary restraining order was issued earlier by a federal court barring its enforcement. The legislature has passed an almost identical bill, but Davis has not signed it.

House Divorced From Divorces

OTTAWA (UPI)—The House of Commons yesterday temporarily gave up its responsibility for dissolving Quebec and Newfoundland marriages in one of the most surprising parliamentary developments in recent years.

A private member's bill sponsored by D. Martin (PC, Toronto-Davenport) went through the House in near record time and rid the Commons of the duty of studying divorces previously granted by the Senate divorce committee. It would be in effect until the end of the present session of parliament.

Divorce petitions from the two provinces now without divorce courts would then only require investigation and approval by the Upper House if Mr. Martin's bill is approved by the Senate. The legislation would probably be considered by the Senate next week.

FLAMES DEVOUR 135 IN WORST AIR CRASH

Jet Levels Busy Block

NEW YORK (AP)—Two airliners, one a jet, collided during a snowstorm over New York Friday and plunged into the city. At least 135 persons were killed in the worst disaster in aviation's history.

Of 128 persons aboard the two planes, the sole survivor was one small boy.

Survivor of the holocaust was Stephen Baltz, 11, of Chicago, on his way here to join his mother in a visit to relatives. He fell into a snowbank, badly burned.

CANADIANS DIE

Two Canadians were listed among the passengers and believed dead.

The United Airlines jet, coming from Chicago, plunged

FLAMING PIECES

The other plane, a four-engined Trans World Airlines propeller-driven craft, coming from Ohio, apparently exploded and came down in flaming pieces on Staten Island, across New York harbor.

It landed in an open field, sparing further tragedy. It carried one of the jet's engines with it.

Until Friday, the worst air tragedy in history was the death of 129 soldiers in the June 18, 1953, crash near Tokyo of a U.S. air force transport.

Fire officials said it might be many hours before all the buildings ravaged by the fallen jet could be thoroughly searched.

SCHOOL MISSED

In its death plunge, the big jet narrowly missed St. Augustine's Roman Catholic church. There were 1,700 pupils at classes inside. A priest said:

DEBRIS TOMB

Ironically, a part of the jetliner came to rest in the wreckage of a funeral parlor, with a score or more passengers entombed in the debris of the parlor.

Would-be rescuers told of seeing passengers' bodies held to their seats by safety belts they had affixed in anticipation of landing. Fury of the disaster made them worthless.

FOR CHRISTMAS

ONLY SECOND

It was only the second U.S. in-flight collision between commercial airliners. The last was over the Grand Canyon in 1956 when all 128 persons died in a collision between a Trans World and United airliners.

The crash occurred in skies obscured by falling snow.

LOW CEILING

The two big planes were coming from the west for separate landings at the two New York City airports, LaGuardia and Idlewild, about 10 miles apart on Long Island. Ceiling was about 600 feet.

The planes were supposed to have been at different altitudes.

Hurtling Boy 'Rode' Seat

By HARRY J. STATHOS

NEW YORK (UPI)—"It looked like a picture out of a fairy book. It was a beautiful sight."

Eleven-year-old Stephen Baltz of Wilmette, Ill., remembered looking out the window of the United Airlines DC-8 jet bringing him to New York for a holiday visit with his grandparents and seeing snow covering the city.

Seconds later the huge plane plunged into a row of brown houses in the heart of Brooklyn, killing 83 passengers and crewmen. Only Stephen, aboard the plane by a quirk of fate, survived.

Rescuers found the crumpled body of the red-haired boy in the street outside the row of houses.

Critically burned on the hands, arms and chest and with one leg broken, young Baltz fought for his life last night in hospital. Eight doctors worked to save him.

Young Baltz told the doctor of looking out the window and seeing snow drifting down on the city, a sudden explosion and the sickening fall.

Originally, he was to have flown to New York a few days ago to visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Snyder of Yonkers, N.Y. But a throat infection forced him to remain at home last week while his mother and sister, Randee, 9, flew east.

Mrs. Baltz and Randee were waiting for Stephen at the Idlewild international airport. They rushed to his bedside.

DON'T WORRY
Mrs. Baltz could only sob: "Thank God."

"Don't worry about Stevey," Randee told her mother. "He'll be all right."

Once, Stephen roused from the emergency room table to tell doctors his mother was waiting for him at the airport.

He managed to tell the doctors he held onto his seat as the airliner hurtled to the ground.

WOKE UP HERE
"That's all I remember until I woke up here," he said.

Hospital chaplain Donald Stacey said several rescuers found Stephen on the street, his clothing aflame. Jimmy Troiano of Brooklyn, one of the rescuers, said the boy was clutching something in his hand that looked like a small radio. He kept saying, "Mommy, Daddy."

Posters and directives drafted to explain the referendum's issues have been scrapped and new ones are being prepared with "peace" as the slogan, the sources said.

The report came as FLN leader Ferhat Abbas ordered his Moslem supporters to stop demonstrations in Algeria but at the same time attacked de Gaulle's referendum.

Official sources in Algiers said the entire meaning of the Jan. 8 referendum on Algeria's future is to be switched to give de Gaulle a mandate to negotiate with the rebels.

500 Homes or More Will Each Get $15

Victoria's 500 neediest families this year will receive $15 each from The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund.

Decision was reached yesterday to set the total in the hope that an additional number of families could be helped—above the list of 500 already compiled.

ALL-TIME HIGH

The number of families desperately needing a hand so that some semblance of a happy Christmas can be marked is at an all-time high, and social workers are at wit's end trying to choose 500 neediest families from a total nearer to 1,000.

With four days remaining to give to the fund, it is felt that probably 100 additional families can be helped—with a possibility of still more drawing a helping hand.

Total of $7,500 is needed to send $15 to 500 families, and this now is in sight.

ENLARGE FUND

Decision to enlarge the fund this year was taken when Colonist officials and welfare workers faced the fact that welfare rolls in Greater Victoria have jumped by as much as 300 per cent.

The fund must close at 5 p.m. Tuesday so that cheques can be delivered in time for Christmas food and gift shopping.

Each additional family aided also will receive $15.

There is still time to mail or bring a donation to the main office of the Colonist at 2631 Douglas Street or the downtown office at 1215 Broad Street.

Atlas Soars On Target To Eniwetok
